Potters Ask For General Wage Raise

IBOP And USPA Set Negotiations Oct. 4 For New Agreement

Pottery industry labor and management spokesmen will meet in New York City Oct. 4 to open negotiations on a new working agreement to replace the present contract, which expires Dec. 1.

The labor committee of the U. S. Potters Association will represent manufacturers. Speaking for the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters will be its Contract Policy Committee, comprised of elected representatives of local unions in plants which have contracts with the USPA, and the General Executive Board, made up of international officers.

The IBOP said its proposals, already submitted to the manufacturers, call for "an across-the-board general wage increase, improvement in fringe benefits and a pension and welfare plan similar to the ones in effect in the sanitary ware industry."

The present contract was signed on May 7, 1959, ending the first general strike in the dinnerware industry in 37 years. It gave the workers a package equivalent to 9 cents hourly, including an immediate 6-cent raise, 3 additional paid holidays, amendment of the seniority, vacation and arbitration provisions and other concessoins.

At the time of the signing, it was estimated the agreement affected a total of 5,700 potters in 11 dinnerware plants in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Affected locally are the Homer Laughlin China Co., Edwin M. Knowles China Co., Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co., Harker Pottery Co. and Hall China Co. At the time the current contract was signed, the district plants had 3,500 employes.

Some chinaware plants have separate contracts with the IBOP that also expire on Dec. 1.

E. L. Wheatley, international president, will head the IBOP's negotiating team. Co-chairmen of the USPA committee are Joseph M. Wells Jr. of the Homer Laughlin China Co. and John T. Hall of the Hall China Co.

The IBOP's contract demands were drafted at a meeting of the Contract Policy Committee in April at Cincinnati. Numbering about 70 members, the committee formerly was known as the Wage Policy Committee.

The contract talks will be held at the Hotel Edison in New York City. The IBOP conferees will meet at 9 a. m. Oct. 3 in the hotel for a conference prior to the first session with the manufacturers.

The union said the committee "has full power to settle with the manufacturers, call a strike or refer such matters back to the respective locals involved for a vote of the members."

Taft Warns Republicans Facing Fight In Election

Hitting at "big spending Democrats," State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati, warned in Wellsville Thursday night, that Republicans have a fight on their hands at the forthcoming general election.

Taft, son of the late U. S. Sen. Robert Taft, was principal speaker at the 1960 Republican kickoff dinner in Columbiana County, sponsored by the Wellsville Republican Club. A capacity crowd of 250 attended at the Riverside United Presbyterian Church.

HE SAID THE two main issues on the national level are "first, national security and peace, and second, economic growth and inflation." The country "gave away its leadership under Roosevelt and Truman," he declared.

"We have had peace and will continue to do so under Republican leadership. But, if a war develops, we will be prepared this time," he continued.

"Our military might is great and the Russians and others know we are prepared," Taft said, continuing "this preparedness is due to the Republicans and I don't know where the Democrats think they come in."

"Kennedy has interfered in world affairs and has had to back down on some issues and statements," Taft stated, "while Nixon has stood up in the world and, when abroad, he didn't back down."

—:—

TAFT ALSO hit at the Democratic state administration in Ohio, contending the state level presents the same picture as the national level. He said "Gov. DiSalle's policy is that of a big spender, building up the payrolls and his own kingdom to buy votes."

"The governor decided on an enormous tax program which I thought to excessive. Less than half of what he asked for was necessary," Taft said. He is a member of the House finance committee.

Taft has been a representative to the Ohio General Assembly since 1955. He has practiced law in Cincinnati since 1946. A graduate of Yale University and of Harvard Law School, he served as a naval officer during World War II. He is married and has two sons and two daughters.

Congressman's Uncertain

Rep. Hays Says 2 Visitors May Have Been Turncoats

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, 18th District congressman, said today at his home at Flushing he remains uncertain if two men who visited his office at Washington in 1959 were Bernon Mitchell and William Martin, code clerks who have defected to Russia.

The two clerks, at a press conference at Moscow Tuesday, said they visited an unnamed congressman in February 1959 to tell him that the United States was not releasing the true details of the downing of a C-130 plane in Red Armenia.

They said they told him the plane had not strayed off course, but was testing Soviet radar defenses. The Reds at that time declared the plane had crashed, while the U.S. insisted it had been shot down.

Hays said Thursday two men came to him in 1959 shortly after a hearing on the plane's downing, telling him the U. S. was using such planes on "spy missions."

The congressman said he does not recognize Mitchell's or Martin's picture, and there are other discrepancies, but they could "very well" be the pair who came to him at that time.

Rep. Hays said the men who visited him described themselves as members of the Central Intelligence Agency, whereas Martin and Mitchell were clerks in the National Security Agency.

The congressman pointed out an average of 20 to 25 people pass through his office daily, and he doubts if he could remember the faces of 2 who visited him a year and a half ago.

He said the pair told him they did not know if the downed plane strayed off course as U. S. officials stated, but they did know that such planes were on reconnaissance flights.

Rep. Hays said he discussed their reports with other committee members but nothing was down about it. He said he did not report the visit to the CIA or NSA because "spying is the business of the executive department, not Congress."

PRR, Unions Optimistic On Strike Truce

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Optimism mounted today for a settlement of the Pennsylvania Railroad strike.

Both union and management negotiators have been summoned to a joint meeting by a federal mediator who indicated both sides were closer to an agreement than ever.

Francis O'Neill, chairman of the National (Railway) Mediation Board, called the negotiators to the joint session after talking Thursday night with union officials.

His action came as pressure grew from industry and public officials to end the walkout which is beginning to cut into the nation's economy. Some groups urged government intervention.

Meanwhile, the chief negotiator for the two unions on strike reported for the first time that some progress has been made.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad is moving in the right direction," said Edward W. Wiesner, chairman of the System Federation Union which has joined the Transport Workers Union in seeking work rules changes to insure job security.

Donna Rips North Cuba

Hurricane Nears Florida Keys; Tidal Waves Feared

BULLETIN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau hoisted hurricane warnings in Miami and Fort Lauderdale today as hurricane Donna churned a turbulent 200-mile-wide path near the south Florida mainland.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna neared the Florida Keys today and the Weather Bureau warned that tidal waves might sweep over portions of the islands.

The monster storm already was pummeling the north coast of Cuba.

In an emergency warning to residents of the Keys—the long chain of islands extending south and west from the Florida mainland—the Weather Bureau said tides would increase to heights of six feet above normal at Key West, a city of 45,000 and site of a large naval base.

Tides elsewhere in the keys will range up to 11 feet, the morning emergency bulletin said.

"It is extremely urgent that all places within reach of these tide levels be evacuated immediately," it added. "Some low-lying roads will be covered by water and this will cut off escape if evacuation is delayed."

Driver In Chain Crash Will Receive Hearing

A Salem driver, whose car — with two women passengers — hit a parked auto causing a chain crash at Lisbon early Thursday, will receive a hearing before County Judge James MacDonald for driving with improper brakes.

The State Highway Patrol cited George Manis, 44, after his car swerved off Route 30 at the southern limits of Lisbon, hit one car, knocked it into another and the third vehicle was shoved into a moving truck.

Manis and a passenger, Sally Keys of Salem, were treated for injuries at Salem City Hospital. Lola Prather of Salem, another passenger, was unhurt.

Youth Killed In Gun Mishap At Salineville

A 17-year-old Salineville youth was fatally injured this morning in a gun mishap in a wooded area north of the village where he and two other boys were spotting squirrels for the coming hunting season.

David Gearin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gearin of E. Main St., died from a wound suffered when a gun discharged as it was set down by one of his companions.

The accident occurred in some wood near the barn of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McPherson, whose farm is about one and a half miles north of Salineville on County Rd. 413.

With Gearin were Larry Martin, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Martin of E. Main St., and Gerald Thomas, 18, son of Mrs. Betty Thomas of the East End.

Gearin, a 1960 graduate of Salineville High School, was on the varsity football and basketball teams, and was an honor student. He was employed at the McCollough Market this summer.

Chief Deputy Sheriff James Miller said Martin had laid his .22-caliber automatic rifle across his legs when it suddenly discharged.

The bullet struck Gearin in the upper right chest and he died within minutes.

Gearin was carrying a .22 pump rifle, and Thomas had a .22 bolt action rifle, Miller said.

The mishap ocurred about a half mile southeast of the barn at 8:30 a. m.

The body was removed to the Kerr Funeral Home where Dr. William Kolozsi, county coroner, performed an autopsy late this morning. He has not made an official ruling as yet.

Reds Put Up Iron Curtain Inside Berlin

West Needs Passes In City's East Side; 1945 Plan Defied

BERLIN (AP) — Communists erected an iron curtain against West Germans inside Berlin today.

In a new challenge to the West, the East German regime forced West German visitors to get red-stamped passes for entry into the Communist sector of the divided old capital.

The move defied the four-power agreement for free movement within the city—an agreement that even the Soviets have respected since the four powers took over in the summer of 1945.

Ludwig Erhard, acting head of the West German government in the absence of vacationing Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, rushed by plane to West Berlin. He charged the Communists with committing "a striking breach of law."

Erhard, who is vice chancellor and minister of economics of the Bonn government, was met at the airport by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt. They went into an immediate conference.

The travel restrictions went into force at midnight and were gradually tightened at main crossing points between the two sectors of the city.

The action by the Soviet satellite regime had the effect of making West Germans get "passports" to cross into East Berlin.

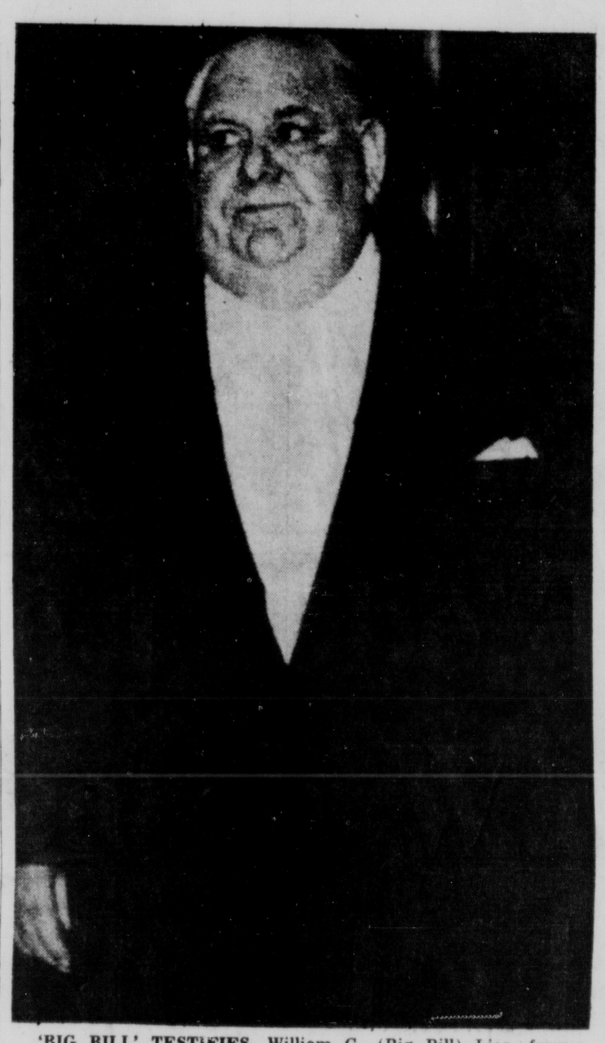

The West Berlin city government of Mayor Willy Brandt charged the move was part of "a planned long-term campaign which considerably sharpens the situation."

West German diplomats in Washington suggested Nikita Khrushchev may try to create a new Berlin crisis timed with the Soviet premier's appearance before the United Nations.

A U.S. spokesman in Bonn denounced the travel curbs as a violation of the agreement between the West and the Soviet Union on "freedom of circulation within greater Berlin."

"We are consulting with our allies," the U.S. spokesman said.

The East German order requires citizens of the West German Republic to get special passes to enter the Communist sector of the city. It does not apply to Germans who live in Berlin or foreigners.

Allison Says He Doubted Its Legality

Pietranton, Virden Cited In Testimony Given At Wheeling

WHEELING (AP) — The West Virginia Crime Commission bore down today on the question of why a search warrant against the Paddock Lounge in Hancock County was never carried out.

Previous witnesses in the commission's current inquiry into vice in the state's Northern Panhandle have identified the Paddock and the Jockey Club, located upstairs in the same building, as places where gambling and illegal liquor sales take place. They are on U.S. 30 east of Chester.

A witness with whom this subject was pursued today, fourth day of the hearing, was Justice of the Peace Eugene Allison of Chester. Allison gave this account of the circumstances under which the search warrant was obtained in February of 1959:

Lyle Virden, a member of the Hancock County Court, came to Allison's office and asked for a search warrant against the Paddock. Allison said he had never issued that type of warrant before and was doubtful about the proper form.

So Virden took the blank warrant with him and returned a few days later with it filled out. Allison said he understood it had been filled out by William E.Conklin, a Chester attorney. But Allison testified that he still did not think the warrant contained enough information.

Then Conklin read it over the telephone to Hancock Pros. Frank A. Pietranton.

According to Allison, Pietranton asked to have the warrant sent to him so he could look it over. Allison said Conklin told him he was going to Pietranton's office that day and take the warrant with him. Allison said he never saw it again.

Sewage Plant Bond Issue Of $485,000 Sold

Council At Midland Accepts Group Bid Of 4 Per Cent Rate

Midland Borough Council Thursday evening sold $485,000 in general obligation bonds to finance construction of a primary sewage treatment plant.

The bonds, in $1,000 denominations, were sold to Singer, Deane & Scribner and a group of eight other firms who offered the best bid of 4 per cent interest and a premium of $1,501.56.

The bonds will be paid off in 25 years, 1961-1985, and the total cost of financing will amount to about $730,000.

The bids were tabulated by Atty. Robert Masters, borough solicitor, and a representative of Hosack, Specht, Muetzel & Wood, brokerage firm of Pittsburgh, which prepared the issue.

Council then adopted a resolution, selling the bonds to the low bidder. An ordinance was then passed under suspension of rules, increasing the bonded indebtedness of the borough to $485,000. Proceeds of the bonds will be used towards the construction and equipping of the sewage plant and for engineer fees and lines, connections and needed facilities.

The plant will be built near the west limits of the borough toward the Ohio River on land donated by the Crucible Steel Co.

Construction will cost $406,998 and the general contract for $357,907 was awarded earlier to the Christopher Construction Co. of Columbus. Contracts were awarded

Potters Ask For General Wage Raise

IBOP And USPA Set Negotiations Oct. 4 For New Agreement

Pottery industry labor and management spokesmen will meet in New York City Oct. 4 to open negotiations on a new working agreement to replace the present contract, which expires Dec. 1.

The labor committee of the U. S. Potters Association will represent manufacturers. Speaking for the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters will be its Contract Policy Committee, comprised of elected representatives of local unions in plants which have contracts with the USPA, and the General Executive Board, made up of international officers.

The IBOP said its proposals, already submitted to the manufacturers, call for "an across-the-board general wage increase, improvement in fringe benefits and a pension and welfare plan similar to the ones in effect in the sanitary ware industry."

The present contract was signed on May 7, 1959, ending the first general strike in the dinnerware industry in 37 years. It gave the workers a package equivalent to 9 cents hourly, including an immediate 6-cent raise, 3 additional paid holidays, amendment of the seniority, vacation and arbitration provisions and other concessoins.

At the time of the signing, it was estimated the agreement affected a total of 5,700 potters in 11 dinnerware plants in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Affected locally are the Homer Laughlin China Co., Edwin M. Knowles China Co., Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co., Harker Pottery Co. and Hall China Co. At the time the current contract was signed, the district plants had 3,500 employes.

Some chinaware plants have separate contracts with the IBOP that also expire on Dec. 1.

E. L. Wheatley, international president, will head the IBOP's negotiating team. Co-chairmen of the USPA committee are Joseph M. Wells Jr. of the Homer Laughlin China Co. and John T. Hall of the Hall China Co.

The IBOP's contract demands were drafted at a meeting of the Contract Policy Committee in April at Cincinnati. Numbering about 70 members, the committee formerly was known as the Wage Policy Committee.

The contract talks will be held at the Hotel Edison in New York City. The IBOP conferees will meet at 9 a. m. Oct. 3 in the hotel for a conference prior to the first session with the manufacturers.

The union said the committee "has full power to settle with the manufacturers, call a strike or refer such matters back to the respective locals involved for a vote of the members."

A U.S. spokesman in Bonn denounced the travel curbs as a violation of the agreement between the West and the Soviet Union on "freedom of circulation within greater Berlin."

"We are consulting with our allies," the U.S. spokesman said.

The East German order requires citizens of the West German Republic to get special passes to enter the Communist sector of the city. It does not apply to Germans who live in Berlin or foreigners.

Truck Firm Plans Branch

Site Near Chester To Become Office

The M. & J. Trucking Co. of Follansbee has leased a site on the Chester - Newell Rd. for a branch office which will eventually be main headquarters for the firm, officials announced today.

The company has leased a 200-x-200-foot lot on the west side of the Chester Lumber Co. from the lumber concern, and has slagged the site in preparation for operations.

Vince Reinfeld, M. & J. president, said a small building is being moved from Moundsville to serve as an office. Dino Rossi of the lumber company, which is moving the 10-x-16-foot structure, said it is due today.

Reinfeld, who is residing temporarily on Park Blvd., East Liverpool, said the firm operates about 40 tractor-trailer trucks in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

He said the company eventually will move its main office from Follansbee. For the present, four employes will be stationed at Chester to handle traffic, billing, rating and dispatching.

Sewage Plant Bond Issue Of $485,000 Sold

Council At Midland Accepts Group Bid Of 4 Per Cent Rate

Midland Borough Council Thursday evening sold $485,000 in general obligation bonds to finance construction of a primary sewage treatment plant.

The bonds, in $1,000 denominations, were sold to Singer, Deane & Scribner and a group of eight other firms who offered the best bid of 4 per cent interest and a premium of $1,501.56.

The bonds will be paid off in 25 years, 1961-1985, and the total cost of financing will amount to about $730,000.

The only other bid was 4½ per cent and a premium of $2,202, submitted by A. E. Masten & Co. and six other firms.

Others in the Singer, Deane & Scribner group were Arthurs, Lestrange & Co., Blair & Co., Inc., Cunningham, Schmertz & Co., Inc., C. S. McKee & Co, Moore, Leonard & Lynch, H. J. Steele & Co., Stroud & Co., Inc., and Thomas & Co

The bids were tabulated by Atty. Robert Masters, borough solicitor, and a representative of Hosack, Specht, Muetzel & Wood, brokerage firm of Pittsburgh, which prepared the issue.

Council then adopted a resolution, selling the bonds to the low bidder. An ordinance was then passed under suspension of rules, increasing the bonded indebtedness of the borough to $485,000. Proceeds of the bonds will be used towards the construction and equipping of the sewage plant and for engineer fees and lines, connections and needed facilities.

The plant will be built near the west limits of the borough toward the Ohio River on land donated by the Crucible Steel Co.

Construction will cost $406,998 and the general contract for $357,907 was awarded earlier to the Christopher Construction Co. of Columbus. Contracts were awarded

Allison Says He Doubted Its Legality

Pietranton, Virden Cited In Testimony Given At Wheeling

WHEELING (AP) — The West Virginia Crime Commission bore down today on the question of why a search warrant against the Paddock Lounge in Hancock County was never carried out.

Previous witnesses in the commission's current inquiry into vice in the state's Northern Panhandle have identified the Paddock and the Jockey Club, located upstairs in the same building, as places where gambling and illegal liquor sales take place. They are on U.S. 30 east of Chester.

A witness with whom this subject was pursued today, fourth day of the hearing, was Justice of the Peace Eugene Allison of Chester. Allison gave this account of the circumstances under which the search warrant was obtained in February of 1959:

Lyle Virden, a member of the Hancock County Court, came to Allison's office and asked for a search warrant against the Paddock. Allison said he had never issued that type of warrant before and was doubtful about the proper form.

So Virden took the blank warrant with him and returned a few days later with it filled out. Allison said he understood it had been filled out by William E.Conklin, a Chester attorney. But Allison testified that he still did not think the warrant contained enough information.

Then Conklin read it over the telephone to Hancock Pros. Frank A. Pietranton.

According to Allison, Pietranton asked to have the warrant sent to him so he could look it over. Allison said Conklin told him he was going to Pietranton's office that day and take the warrant with him. Allison said he never saw it again.

Area Talent Also Awaited

TV Stars Will Appear On Telethon

Officials of the United Cerebral Palsy Association wish that Michael Anthony would hand over one of those "million-dollar" checks for their area fund drive.

But at least he'll be helping by appearing with Lt. Rip Masters in the district telethon to be held Sunday from 12:15 a.m. to 5 p.m. over WSTV to raise funds for the CPA's area projects on behalf of afflicted children.

The two TV stars will perform with a host of Ohio Valley talent in the annual event over the Steubenville television station, Channel 9.

Michael Anthony, who in real life is Marvin Miller, is shown pulling one of those big checks from his brief case. Lt. Masters, who is James Brown, needs no introduction to youngsters who follow his popular "Rin Tin Tin" TV show.

Mr. Anthony" will be guest of honor at the "Millionaires Banquet" Saturday from 7 to 9 at the Weirton Community Center. He will issue personally autographed "checks" to those attending. Reservations are $5, which goes to the CPA fund.

Jeannie Thomas, ex Miss Virginia, and Ken Garson, TV singers, will lend their vocal talent to the 17 hours of televiewing.

Red Donley will be general chairman and Al Lorello musical director. Some 40 acts and 6 bands will appear in the program.

Local talent will be "The Colonials" and "Welcommaires," barbershop quartets, and Tommy Miller, who won several times on the Ted Mack Amateur Show.

Students from the Ronnie Boston Dance Centre who will appear are Leonard Birns, Kathy Hancock, Jennie Fae Dingess, Donna Davis, Susan Keeper, Debbie Habenicht, Susie Popejoy and Darcee Bichler, with choreography by Rozlind Boston.

Larry Myers of the Cassidy Dance Studio will perform along with a professional act.

Mrs. Martha Garren, president of the CPA Parental Group, said several children of the East Liverpool clinic will appear during the show. About 400 volunteers will assist.

Lawrence Zollinger, president of the local affiliate, said a collection point will be set up on the Diamond.

The local affiliate urged that all area cash collections be turned in here, rather than at Steubenville, to make sure the group receives its proper share of contributions.

Members of the Key Club will assist on the Diamond. There will be souvenirs for the children and entertainment.

Mrs. Mary McCullough is lining up phone operators to staff the headquarters in the Review, where donations may be phoned in, and Mrs. Marian Thompson is arranging for the other workers.

Taft

a year. "These are indirect taxes you don't see," he said. Listing some of them, Taft said the increased taxes are on cigarettes, gasoline, higher liquor prices and more taxes on corporations. The latter has stopped some industry from moving into the state, he said.

Early in his talk, Taft said he had a "word of warning". "The Republicans have had, at least in past elections, a false sense of security. I would like to explode that bubble as we have a real job to do," he pointed out.

"We are going to have a fight all the way down. Congress is extremely important. The polls predict the Democrats over the Republicans, and while these are not always true, they should be faced," he continued.

HE LATER said that the "Democrats have some union groups already out working for them. We don't have any groups like these; our work must come from within the party and from citizens' groups."

He urged that party members back the candidates with donations.

There are two basic differences in the parties, he said. "The Republicans stand for faith for the individual as a person—the Democrats are interested in big government for the sake of big movement."

He said that it is important to return a GOP majority to Columbus and to Congress. The Democrats "ran wild" in the last session of State Legislature, overriding our objections to a lot of high taxes and big government, Taft remarked. "Taxes infringe on individual freedom; taking money from persons to use for something they don't particularly care for," he said.

BECAUSE of the heat, Taft spoke only 30 minutes. He spoke at noon Thursday in Cincinnati, then flew in a private plane to Wintersville where he was met by Mayor William J. Shoub of Wellsville and Atty. James L. McSweeney, Wellsville GOP chairman.

McSweeney was master of ceremonies and introduced guests. Ernest U. Whitacre of Salem, county GOP chairman, introduced various candidates who were present.

McSweeney remarked that Taft is the fifth member of his family to have visited in Wellsville in that Taft is considered in state GOP circles as a likely candidate for governor or U. S. senator, "more likely the latter."

The Rev. Arden Beck of the First Methodist Church gave the invocation and benediction.

The Heathertones Quartet, Central Atlantic Regional champions and members of the East Liverpool Sweet Adelines, Inc., Chapter, sang following the meal.

Sewage Plant Financing Set

July 28. Excavation began about Aug. 17 and ground was officially broken Aug. 20.

It is estimated that the plant is being built at a saving of about $100,000 due to competition. Another $100,000 was estimated to have been saved when voters approved a $625,000 general obligation bond issue April 26. Otherwise, the borough would have had to finance the project by revenue bonds, costing more.

Steve Germusa, Council president, announced that a special meeting will be held next Thursday at 8 p. m. to receive the open bids for the blacktopping of 13th St. from Midland Ave. to Ohio Ave., and on Ohio Ave. from 12th to 13th Sts. and an unpaved section of 7th St. beyond Railroad Ave. in front of the A. & P. store.

An allowance is being made in the blacktopping of the 7th St. section for parking meters near the fence. This will permit fair use of the parking space by shoppers, Burgess Eli Corak said.

Money for the project will come from Beaver County's share of liquid fuel tax refunds, amounting to $7,500, or the cost of the work. The burgess said this is the first time the county has accepted the borough's application for street aid.

Councilman Joseph Hibbard said he has been receiving complaints from older persons about street lights being turned off too early in the mornings. He said that some persons go to early Mass and need the lights.

Hospital. Plans were made to sell

Mrs. C. K. O'Hara reported that she had contacted R. C. McCreary, sales manager of the Beaver office of the Duquesne Light Co., and he will have the light timing adjusted.

During reading of communications, the light company informed Council that it will have no night inspections of street lights, effective Wednesday, when group replacement of lamps begins. The company plans to change each lamp three times a year. If lights burn out, their exact location must be given since they will be changed during the day.

Nick Deramo was granted permission to cut curbing at 120 Midland Ave. for a driveway.

Councilman Harvey Sponcer, Veterans Memorial Pool committee chairman, reported that the pool closed Labor Day and water will be drained for necessary maintenance.

He congratulated Victor Martinetti, new pool manager this season, for "an excellent job" in operating the pool and enforcing rules.

On motions by Councilman Lester Trainer, Council accepted reports of borough officers without a reading and approved payment of all bills.

It is estimated that the plant is being built at a saving of about $100,000 due to competition. Another $100,000 was estimated to have been saved when voters approved a $625,000 general obligation bond issue April 26. Otherwise, the borough would have had to finance the project by revenue bonds, costing more.

Steve Germusa, Council president, announced that a special meeting will be held next Thursday at 8 p. m. to receive the open bids for the blacktopping of 13th St. from Midland Ave. to Ohio Ave., and on Ohio Ave. from 12th to 13th Sts. and an unpaved section of 7th St. beyond Railroad Ave. in front of the A. & P. store.

An allowance is being made in the blacktopping of the 7th St. section for parking meters near the fence. This will permit fair use of the parking space by shoppers, Burgess Eli Corak said.

Money for the project will come from Beaver County's share of liquid fuel tax refunds, amounting to $7,500, or the cost of the work. The burgess said this is the first time the county has accepted the borough's application for street aid.

Councilman Joseph Hibbard said he has been receiving complaints from older persons about street lights being turned off too early in the mornings. He said that some persons go to early Mass and need the lights.

Hospital. Plans were made to sell

Mrs. C. K. O'Hara reported that she had contacted R. C. McCreary, sales manager of the Beaver office of the Duquesne Light Co., and he will have the light timing adjusted.

During reading of communications, the light company informed Council that it will have no night inspections of street lights, effective Wednesday, when group replacement of lamps begins. The company plans to change each lamp three times a year. If lights burn out, their exact location must be given since they will be changed during the day.

Nick Deramo was granted permission to cut curbing at 120 Midland Ave. for a driveway.

Councilman Harvey Sponcer, Veterans Memorial Pool committee chairman, reported that the pool closed Labor Day and water will be drained for necessary maintenance.

He congratulated Victor Martinetti, new pool manager this season, for "an excellent job" in operating the pool and enforcing rules.

On motions by Councilman Lester Trainer, Council accepted reports of borough officers without a reading and approved payment of all bills.

No Referees In Politics

For citizens expecting the start of hot campaigning after Labor Day, it's not only disappointing but disconcerting to find the campaign still marking time at the end of the first week in September.

Vice President Nixon is still striving to mend the knee he banged on an automobile door, and Sen. Kennedy is still trying to make himself sound like something besides an off-stage voice.

This does not mean, however, there is no political ferment in the country. Presidential politics is being discussed intensely wherever people get together. The vital process of opinion-reaching that is at the heart of popular government is way out ahead of the presidential campaigning, which so far has not been effectual, except as straw thrown in the wind.

There has been speculation, for example, about the relationship of Sen. Johnson to the Kennedy campaign, because enthusiasm for Nixon appearances in southern states suggested that Johnson, who is powerless to help Kennedy in the North, might not help him in the South, either.

And when John Cabot Lodge, relieved of his United Nations chores last week, celebrated the beginning of his campaigning by drinking pop, eating hot dogs and rubbing elbows with Labor Day crowds there was speculation that he and not Sen. Johnson might swing the balance in the campaign. He showed great aptitude for the common touch conspicuously missing in the other three men involved.

Thus far, the great events that were to break over the nation's head once Labor Day was past have consisted of little but speculation. No issues have been joined. Only one aspersion has been cast—the aspersion that Mr. Nixon is responsible for religious bigotry, even though he has closed the door against it.

There is perhaps the time to acknowledge that aspersions, being part and parcel of every presidential campaign, must be dealt with as they are cast. There is no way to prevent them. There are no referees in politics.

Anything goes, if it seems to be worth the effort. One of the most dependable of all moves, therefore, is a well-cast aspersion. By the time it has been fielded, evaluated and answered, if an answer is called for, another aspersion will be on the way.

The idea is to keep the air full of aspersions, with a view to neutralizing their effect. This is a good time to get braced, because the longer the campaign is delayed at the beginning the more furious it is certain to be at the end. And the end now is eight weeks away.

The Season's On!

District high schools launch another football season this weekend.

Some of the players will be getting their first taste of varsity competition, but other than that things will be pretty much as before — the field is the usual length and width; the ball is still blown up and not stuffed; the uniforms will be just as hot as ever at this time of the year; the bands and the fans will be on hand; there will be sparkling plays and not so sparkling fumbles.

To all the teams, the annual "best of luck" and keep plugging, even if the ball doesn't always bounce right. And to the East Liverpool Potters and their coaching staff, a special pat on the back. In view of the schedule they're facing, every kind and encouraging word may be needed.

Can The Congolese Have Revolution?

The ticklish issue of revolution in the Congo Republic will have to be settled in the United Nations, among other places. But long before there was a United Nations to regularize international behavior, the right of revolution was ticklish.

Did the United States have a right to revolt first against England and then to indulge in a revolt that pitted brother against brother?

Did the French have a right to go to war with one another over the terms of their political existence?

Did the revolutionists and counter-revolutionists of Spain have a right to do what they did?

Had there been a United Nations, would it have intervened in Mexico? Would it have intervened in Cuba when the insurrectionists arose against Spain?

What would have been its obligation in China when Chiang Kai-shek was involved in revolutionary activity? And in Latin America when revolutions were carving out national boundaries and undermining previously established orders?

What is involved in the long view of this matter is whether the new Republic of Congo and other emerging states in the 20th century, can be expected to establish themselves in a more orderly manner—and with less outside interference—than the states that formerly paid the price of revolution for their ultimate stability.

Everything about the Congolese since their chaotic beginning two months ago as a new nation has been discouraging, as far as their ability to maintain order is concerned. But in the long view of nationalist beginnings, events in the Congo have been no more discouraging than the experiences of new nations elsewhere that were started under more favorable omens of success.

Interference in revolutions by interested third and fourth parties is not new, either. The only thing new is the tentative right of the United Nations to try to avert armed violence when its help has been requested by the proper authorities.

Even the United Nations is not as new as it would seem to be if there had not been drawn up and signed in September 1815 the Holy Alliance, which was a declaration of the principle of nonviolance to guide rulers in their relations with their subjects and with one another.

Softness Starts In The Head

Recent events tend to substantiate the fear that Americans in this land of ease and plenty are growing soft.

Take the Olympics. In several events where the United States had dominated for years, Americans fell behind. They were beaten in the 100-meter dash for the first time in 28 years. In the 800-meter race, an event won by an American in every Olympics since 1936, the United States was out of the picture.

Two instances alone won't support the fear of inadequacy, but add to this the report in a Pittsburgh newspaper on training in the Marines.

At Parris Island, Marine training base, finding reveal that the majority of young men are physically soft and unaccustomed to the shock and violence of physical contact.

The report states, "The greatest weakness in the young men is the arms and shoulders. Two-thirds of these who fail (to meet Marine minimum requirements) fail beacuse they can-not do pull-ups or push-ups.

Add to this the picture painted by Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, who in describing U-2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers, said he was "an example of the immature, uninformed, average American today waiting desperately to have all the comforts of life with none of the work or responsibility."

President Eisenhower realized this physical fitness shortcoming in U.S. youth when he formed a national committee to work on the problem, but the problem can be solved only when the parents of today's youngsters realize that giving Junior everything they didn't have isn't necessarily the best thing for Junior.

American sports writers led us to think the United States was close to invincible in most track and field events, but already we have been forced to take a back seat.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

KEEP BOWLING WITH Berle! That's the new slogan in the fastest growing sport. Uncle Miltie may become "Uncle Alley" in new TV act providing laughs in national bowling show. He will keep things rolling, also people.

Idea is to bring bowling alley into your home and fireside. (This can be another threat to world peace.)

Berle was once kingpin of airwaves and is a top laugh-getter. He will work "off the cuff resisting all efforts to set staff of writers up" in the other alley.

No custard-pie hurling, no falling pants, no knockabout routines, no chicken-fat jokes. Just Milton rolling his own, and knocking the audience off its PINS.

Possible Berle routine: "Berling-beg pardon-bowling is a great game. You never have to look into the woods for a lost ball. No alley has a water hole. And a swell thing about the game is you can't lose through a bad putt.

What am I doing in a bowling alley? I'm as puzzled as you. All I know is I get paid for NOT PLAYING. No other bowler can make that statement.

"I don't worry about any PINS but my own. If they hold out and my arches don't fall, I'll be okay. I may help bowling. Look what Eisenhower did for golf. He couldn't play, either." etc.

NEW YORK COP ousted for faking sick leave for year while he worked at bigger pay in airplane plant says, "I don't think I was treated fairly." Whether the city, the police force or the public got fair treatment certainly doesn't matter. How is it possible for a police station, supposed to be ever alert in detecting wrong-doing, to have a cop missing a year, sick or well, without looking into it? Police doctors are supposed to check, but doesn't a captain or lieutenant get curious after the first 10 months?

O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh" is to be done on TV. It won't be sponsored by an electric refrigerator company. This play takes four hours on stage and how it can be done on TV puzzles us, unless it will use a jet-propelled iceman.

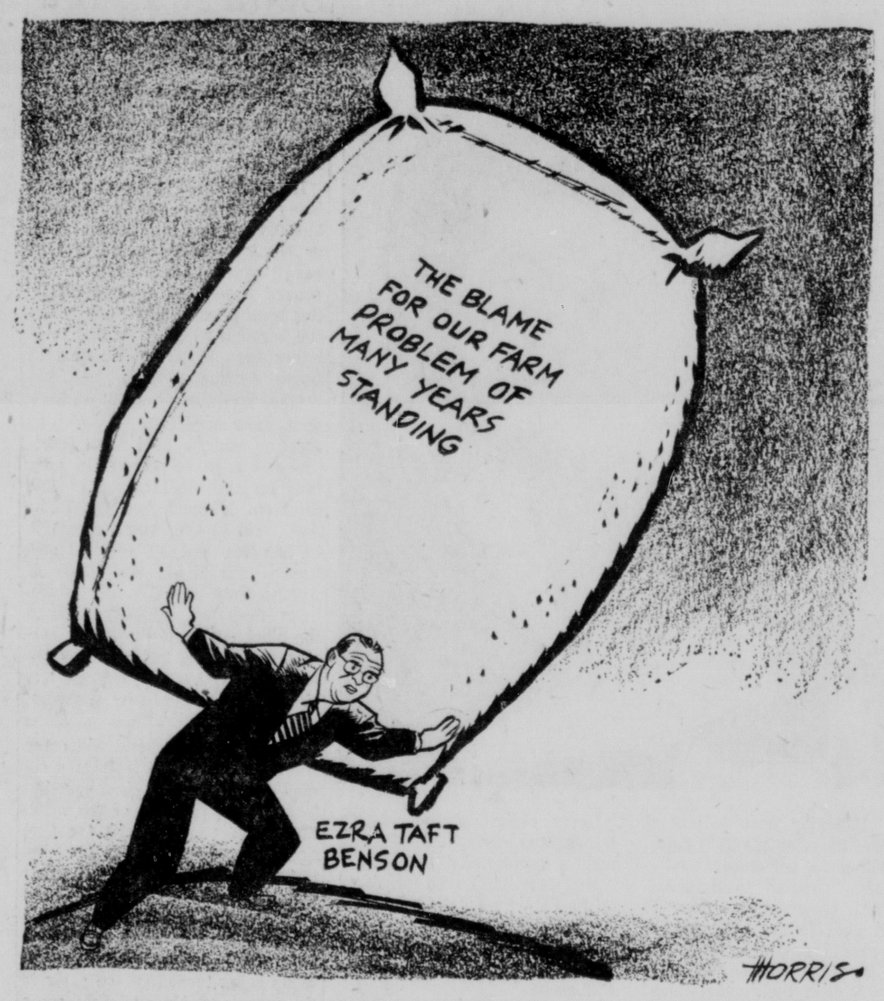

Gov. Furcolo of Massachussetts has written a play which got its tryout in Traverse City, Mich. That's what we call "Off-Broadway" beyond doubt.

Chicago workers struck when boss cut out annual Thanksgiving turkey and $50 Christmas bonus, because of business decline. Generosity must be permanent these days, or else.

TV sets are in 88 per cent of U.S. homes. The other 12 per cent have no arguments with the repair men and still think cowboys and Western marshals hit their targets in the first 100 shots.

Parents are still taking it on chin in fixing blame for schooling of kids in crime by TV. All the child welfare and juvenile crime experts say, "Keep them away from the violent programs." It would be fun watching the battle as some if these experts tried it. Make an Olympic Games event, perhaps.

Another Surplus

Quill, 'Last Of The Red-Hot Militants'

By Victor Riesel

Along The Main Line: For 200 miles I drove by the side of eerily silent rails of the paralyzed "Pennsy". For I was eager to see what even a tiny corner of a general strike would be like. Wherever I stopped to question, they countered with, "What's he like?" — this man whose "job action" dared to tie up almost half the land's rail transport.

Victor Riesel

"He" is Michael Joseph Quill, 55 years old come Sept. 18 — the gift of County Kerry's township, Gourtloughera, to America's tranquilizer pill industry. And, of course, he is the president of the Transport Workers Union.

Though few outside a small New York circle really know Mike — and almost none believed he'd pull off the toughest rail strike of the century — he is labor's swiftest in-fighter, swiftest with a searing insult and quickest to tell labor's national leaders to drop dead when they vex him.

For the most part Quill has stayed inside his own bailiwick, building it with a caustic barrage of red hot militancy.

Always he has been on the verge of a catastrophic strike. Always the other side has caved in — except for the Pennsylvania Railroad last week.

Always he has solidified himself with his men in an industry where the machine must triumph. Always he has done this by slowing the disappearance of transport jobs in a jet age.

BACK IN THE '30s when first I heard of Mike, his voice was coming up louder and louder from a subway change booth job. He was "that Irish fellow who had sold religious objects in Western Pennsylvania until he did the strange thing of going to Vienna for a hip operation with no money at all."

He went from the ship into the subway system during the depression.

There he found, what he has always sought, the unorganized in a low paid field. The subway workers were leaderless and were being kicked around by the aristocrats of the underground — the subway train engineers.

Mike found the cleaners and change makers and track walkers and conductors about to be hit by a pay cut and layoffs.

With the assist from a Communist labor unit, The Trade Union Unity League, Mike started. He saved jobs.

Years later, after he had broken his left-wing alliance, he telephoned me. There was difficulty in Manhattan's giant 59th St. powerhouse.

He has just the story for me. He would show me how to crawl down a conduit and into the vast open centered coal storage dungeons. Once inside I could walk out triumphantly.

WHY TRIUMPHANTLY? This was wartime. I would show the world what an enterprising (and slimmer, too) reporter I was by proving that a man could creep past the guard and put himself in position to blow up the vital electric power plant.

I was almost decapitated but I did it, as Mike said, for the good of my country.

I also learned that Quill then demanded that more men be taken on to protect the installation — HIS TWU members, of course.

He lives with the job status thing. Back in May 1955 we left an international labor conference in Vienna's Concerthaus. We found ourselves walking past the young Soviet machine gun-laden guard in front of the four-power Commandatura.

I needled Quill. "Mike," I said, "here's your chance to say something directly to the Soviet people you admired so much. Say something, anything, for posterity."

Quill stopped, and in his brogue said to the young soldiers, "And what do you think of the tearing down of New York's Third Ave. 'El'?"

The first thing to hit his mind was the leveling of the elevated railroad which would cost several hundred jobs.

THERE ARE those who have ridiculed Quill and his threats — saying that he'd never dare call a strike. But they forget that Mike has always believed in what we once called direct "job action."

That's how he has been able to tie into his TWU all the commercial airline navigators, many missile tracking personnel, train icers on a line from St. Louis to Los Angeles, Pan American clerks and maintenance workers, San Francisco cable car operators, university service people, skilled technicians inside the new electronic testing center at Yuma, Ariz., New Orleans coffee trucks, powerhouse men and air transport service personnel, as well as subway workers.

Any strike he pulls has an automatic built-in crisis. And his people are in 500 cities. That could make a flock of crises. For he's the last of the red hot militants.

An Unforgettable Time

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Twenty-five years ago tonight was one of the unforgettable times for me. Sen. Huey P. Long was dying in a hospital in Baton Rouge, La. It was an uneasy city.

Long had been shot the night before, Sunday, Sept. 8, 1935. Dr. Carl Austin Weiss has been called the assassin. This has never been proved beyond doubt. There was no autopsy. The coroner's inquest was a fast, brief routine.

There is still a question whether one of the Long bodyguards excitedly and accidentally shot Long when he saw Weiss approaching with a gun.

At the time of the shooting I was in New Orleans, working on the Times-Picayune, and immediately afterwards was sent to Baton Rouge to join the T-P staff which was working on the Legislature when Long was shot.

None of us got sleep Sunday, Sunday night, or Monday, or Monday night. Monday night Long began slipping. I was sent over to the hospital just before midnight to join an Associated Press reporter and a girl reporter for the Baton Rouge papers.

We had phones in a small room off the lobby of Our Lady of The Lake Sanitarium. Long's room was upstairs on the second floor. The three of us had been warned by Long's bodyguards not to try to go up those stairs.

There must have been 40 bodyguards, all with guns, in the lobby. Outside another 10 or 12 of them shoulder to shoulder across the top step of the hospital.

All through the night another pair of bodyguards made endless rounds of doors and windows, in the basement and upstairs, to make sure no one could slip in to kill Long in his bed.

The Long people didn't know whether Weiss was acting on his own when he went up to Long with a gun that Sunday night or whether he was part of a conspiracy to kill the senator.

We didn't try the stairs. We knew better. Over the years of the Long regime—in which he controlled the courts, or some of them, the Legislature, the State Police, and some district attorneys—the senator's bodyguards had smashed newsmen's faces and heads.

Only a short time before one of those bodyguards making the rounds of doors and windows had fractured an Associated Press photographer's skull with a blackjack and was never prosecuted.

About 2 a.m. Tuesday the bodyguards in the lobby were nervous and agitated. A nurse had come down and said Long was going, that the doctors were giving him adrenalin.

About 3 a.m. Long's family and some of his top lieutenants came in quickly and went upstairs. About 4 a.m. one of the upstairs bodyguards came down and whispered to the girl reporter. I tried to hear. He said: "Get back you."

I got back. Then I heard him say Long had just died. I ran for the stairs. It was a reflex action. I couldn't phone that Long was dead with nothing to go on but a whisper. I had to go up to his room to verify it.

But that reflex action, made in forgetfulness of the warning not to go near the stairs, has scared me about my own reflex actions ever since. Suddenly all the bodyguards were running for the stairs.

Then the fright set in. I thought "here's where I get it." But I was near the stairs. I couldn't turn back. The bodyguards were all around. They had me squeezed in. I thought "what a way to get it."

And just as suddenly the guards melted away and let me through. I went up the stairs, walking, no longer running, the bodyguards walking slowly behind me, not interfering.

What happened to them at that moment when they had me surrounded and then let me through? I can't be sure. They used to keep in shape beating up newspapermen. Maybe they realized the boss was dead and they didn't have anything more to do.

Maybe something else. Maybe they suddenly realized the one man who had always stood between them and punishment for their violence was gone and they were defenseless. I don't know. For that one moment the fight went out of the Long machine.

It came back later when Huey's brother, Earl, who died last Sunday, became governor. But that moment when I reached the stairs with the bodyguards was the end of an era, before the second one began.

Public Notice

An out-of-state motorist was driving along a New England highway that was unfamiliar to him.

All of a sudden he became aware of a double amber blinker on his left, ahead and above the road.

His puzzlement was soon resolved. In a short distance he saw a side road approaching from the right. The blinker was like a permanent caution, warning the approaching driver to be extra careful.

Within limits, the blinker was like a public notice. The purpose of the notice may vary but basically it is intended to call attention to something. It is designed, moreover, to give due notice. Generally this means sufficient time to enable those concerned to take whatever steps may be necessary to protect their rights and interests, whether collective or individual.

Old Plot, New Cast

By David Lawrence

Martin, Mitchell Defection Follows Pattern

Blackmail and brainwashing by Soviet agents undoubtedly brought about the treason of William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell.

The whole record in the case is repulsive and may never see the light of day. But the depths to which the Soviet agents stoop nowadays in order to get scraps of information from American military sources are indescribably revolting.

David Lawrence

The same tactics which caused Messrs. Burgess and MacLean, the British diplomats, suddenly to defect to Moscow from London would appear to have been used again in the case of the two Americans employed in the hush-hush bureau known as the National Security Agency.

The story goes back to the time Mitchell and Martin lived together while they were in the Navy. They were seclusive individuals who didn't seem to be interested in the opposite sex.

When they went through the first check-up before being employed by the National Security Agency a few years ago, there was nothing derogatory found out about them.

After they were employed, however, an investigation revealed that one of the two had been examined by a psychiatrist who said later that the young men seemed to have inclinations toward sex deviation.

JUST WHY this report didn't result in any action to watch closely the subsequent behavior of the two young men is a mystery. For they went to Mexico together fully a year before their recent defection, and it was undoubtedly while they were in Mexico that they made their first contact with the Soviets.

The threats of blackmail, together with compromising pictures, usually come first. The victim is afraid of what will be disclosed about his personal life, and meets often with the Soviet blackmailers who carry on their brainwashing to the point where the defection becomes inevitable, as seemingly the only way out.

It could be that the Soviet experts began their blackmail in Mexico and decided to train the future defectors to get further information.

The plot was carried out to the point that the Soviets even anticipated possible charges of brainwashing and arranged to have the two young men write out their statement before they left the United States for the Soviet Union.

It was known to government authorities here that they had left such a statement in a safety deposit box at a bank in Maryland, and the text became available to the American government just after the two young men left for Russia, but it was not released for publication.

THE PHRASING of the document, now issued in Moscow, is so much like that which defectors often use, that it bears all the earmarks of careful preparation by Soviet experts. It says, for example:

"In the Soviet Union our main values and interests appear to be shared by a greater number of people. Consequently, we feel that we will be better accepted socially there, and will be better able to carry out our professional activities.

"Another motivating factor is that the talents of women are encouraged and utilized to a much greater extent in the Soviet Union than in the United States. We feel that this enriches Soviet society and makes Soviet women more desirable as mates."

There are references to "capitalist society," "preventive war" and to the "development of nuclear and more powerful means of destruction." And, as if to anticipate charges of brainwashing, the document itself says:

"This statement has been made without consulting with the government of the Soviet Union. . . . We wish to make this explanation in such a way that it cannot be later construed as a propaganda statement inspired by the government of the nation in which we have asked to be allowed to make our homes."

THERE ARE MANY things about the Martin-Mitchell episode which have yet to be explained, and one of them gives a clear indication of the brainwashing.

This is pointed up by a Reuters news service dispatch from Moscow on Tuesday about the press conference which Martin and Mitchell held there. It says:

"Martin and Mitchell referred to the disappearance of an American C130 aircraft over Soviet Armenia in September, 1958, and said it had deliberately crossed the border to get into range of Soviet radar installations.

"The State Department claimed it had been shot down, they said, while Russia said it had crashed.

"The two men said they were told by a high official of the National Security Agency that the plane was on an intelligence flight and feeling that most members of Congress did not know about these flights, they decided to speak privately with a congressman.

"They explained the nature of the C130 flight but the conversation was interrupted by a telephone call from the State Department requesting the congressman to refrain from further discussion of the subject, they said.

"They declined to give the name of the congressman. 'He can name himself if he wants to,' Mitchell said."

American authorities who investigated every angel of the case are convinced that this is an example of brainwashing. For there is indisputable evidence of the crashing of the C130, and there is no evidence whatsoever of any conversations between State Department officials dealing with these problems and any congressman.

On its face, it is absurd to assume that any minor employee in a hush-hush agency would take it upon themselves normally to go to a congressman's office and tell him there were important intelligence flights which he should know about.

The risk of being compromised and detected by such a visit is so great that it seems hardly possible anybody in his right mind would try it.

Letter To The Editor

This letter is meant as an apology to Mr. Floyd Tweed (my neighbor) and to the City Council for having been asked to quell a disturbance against Mr. Tweed.

I have three daughters any parent would be proud of. My oldest is 17 and is waiting to enter nurses' training in order to serve all mankind as a lady and as a practical American citizen.

My second oldest is 16 and will be graduated from East Liverpool High School next spring. She is a born artist with serious intent of following a career in the field of commercial art.

My youngest is 11 years old and full of spice and ginger. Her energy, like that of any 11-year-old, has to be expended, whether it be at home, at school or on the "neighborhood" street corner.

Of course she has playmates. This "gang" mentioned in the Sept. 7 issue of The Review consists of my three daughters and several neighborhood children ranging in age from (mind you now) two (2) to fifteen (15). If those children (whose parents are to blame) continue to sit on our neighbor's small retaining wall or on their own respective porches as they usually do, then perhaps we had better do away with the porches, or?

May I ask of our neighbor—has he always been an adult or was he once a "neighborhood" boy? I imagine I can find a few good answers.

May I add that this "gang by playing near Mr. Tweed's home is within 50 feet of each member's home, playing "Release a peddler", "Sixty Outs", etc., all delinquent games.

Only one aspersion has been cast—the aspersion that Mr. Nixon is responsible for religious bigotry, even though he has closed the door against it.

There is perhaps the time to acknowledge that aspersions, being part and parcel of every presidential campaign, must be dealt with as they are cast. There is no way to prevent them. There are no referees in politics.

Anything goes, if it seems to be worth the effort. One of the most dependable of all moves, therefore, is a well-cast aspersion. By the time it has been fielded, evaluated and answered, if an answer is called for, another aspersion will be on the way.

The idea is to keep the air full of aspersions, with a view to neutralizing their effect. This is a good time to get braced, because the longer the campaign is delayed at the beginning the more furious it is certain to be at the end. And the end now is eight weeks away.

The Season's On!

District high schools launch another football season this weekend.

Some of the players will be getting their first taste of varsity competition, but other than that things will be pretty much as before — the field is the usual length and width; the ball is still blown up and not stuffed; the uniforms will be just as hot as ever at this time of the year; the bands and the fans will be on hand; there will be sparkling plays and not so sparkling fumbles.

To all the teams, the annual "best of luck" and keep plugging, even if the ball doesn't always bounce right. And to the East Liverpool Potters and their coaching staff, a special pat on the back. In view of the schedule they're facing, every kind and encouraging word may be needed.

Can The Congolese Have Revolution?

The ticklish issue of revolution in the Congo Republic will have to be settled in the United Nations, among other places. But long before there was a United Nations to regularize international behavior, the right of revolution was ticklish.

Did the United States have a right to revolt first against England and then to indulge in a revolt that pitted brother against brother?

Did the French have a right to go to war with one another over the terms of their political existence?

Did the revolutionists and counter-revolutionists of Spain have a right to do what they did?

Had there been a United Nations, would it have intervened in Mexico? Would it have intervened in Cuba when the insurrectionists arose against Spain?

What would have been its obligation in China when Chiang Kai-shek was involved in revolutionary activity? And in Latin America when revolutions were carving out national boundaries and undermining previously established orders?

What is involved in the long view of this matter is whether the new Republic of Congo and other emerging states in the 20th century, can be expected to establish themselves in a more orderly manner—and with less outside interference—than the states that formerly paid the price of revolution for their ultimate stability.

Everything about the Congolese since their chaotic beginning two months ago as a new nation has been discouraging, as far as their ability to maintain order is concerned. But in the long view of nationalist beginnings, events in the Congo have been no more discouraging than the experiences of new nations elsewhere that were started under more favorable omens of success.

Interference in revolutions by interested third and fourth parties is not new, either. The only thing new is the tentative right of the United Nations to try to avert armed violence when its help has been requested by the proper authorities.

Even the United Nations is not as new as it would seem to be if there had not been drawn up and signed in September 1815 the Holy Alliance, which was a declaration of the principle of nonviolance to guide rulers in their relations with their subjects and with one another.

Softness Starts In The Head

Recent events tend to substantiate the fear that Americans in this land of ease and plenty are growing soft.

Take the Olympics. In several events where the United States had dominated for years, Americans fell behind. They were beaten in the 100-meter dash for the first time in 28 years. In the 800-meter race, an event won by an American in every Olympics since 1936, the United States was out of the picture.

Two instances alone won't support the fear of inadequacy, but add to this the report in a Pittsburgh newspaper on training in the Marines.

At Parris Island, Marine training base, finding reveal that the majority of young men are physically soft and unaccustomed to the shock and violence of physical contact.

The report states, "The greatest weakness in the young men is the arms and shoulders. Two-thirds of these who fail (to meet Marine minimum requirements) fail beacuse they can-not do pull-ups or push-ups.

Add to this the picture painted by Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, who in describing U-2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers, said he was "an example of the immature, uninformed, average American today waiting desperately to have all the comforts of life with none of the work or responsibility."

President Eisenhower realized this physical fitness shortcoming in U.S. youth when he formed a national committee to work on the problem, but the problem can be solved only when the parents of today's youngsters realize that giving Junior everything they didn't have isn't necessarily the best thing for Junior.

American sports writers led us to think the United States was close to invincible in most track and field events, but already we have been forced to take a back seat.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

KEEP BOWLING WITH Berle! That's the new slogan in the fastest growing sport. Uncle Miltie may become "Uncle Alley" in new TV act providing laughs in national bowling show. He will keep things rolling, also people.

Idea is to bring bowling alley into your home and fireside. (This can be another threat to world peace.)

Berle was once kingpin of airwaves and is a top laugh-getter. He will work "off the cuff resisting all efforts to set staff of writers up" in the other alley.

No custard-pie hurling, no falling pants, no knockabout routines, no chicken-fat jokes. Just Milton rolling his own, and knocking the audience off its PINS.

Possible Berle routine: "Berling-beg pardon-bowling is a great game. You never have to look into the woods for a lost ball. No alley has a water hole. And a swell thing about the game is you can't lose through a bad putt.

What am I doing in a bowling alley? I'm as puzzled as you. All I know is I get paid for NOT PLAYING. No other bowler can make that statement.

"I don't worry about any PINS but my own. If they hold out and my arches don't fall, I'll be okay. I may help bowling. Look what Eisenhower did for golf. He couldn't play, either." etc.

NEW YORK COP ousted for faking sick leave for year while he worked at bigger pay in airplane plant says, "I don't think I was treated fairly." Whether the city, the police force or the public got fair treatment certainly doesn't matter. How is it possible for a police station, supposed to be ever alert in detecting wrong-doing, to have a cop missing a year, sick or well, without looking into it? Police doctors are supposed to check, but doesn't a captain or lieutenant get curious after the first 10 months?

O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh" is to be done on TV. It won't be sponsored by an electric refrigerator company. This play takes four hours on stage and how it can be done on TV puzzles us, unless it will use a jet-propelled iceman.

Gov. Furcolo of Massachussetts has written a play which got its tryout in Traverse City, Mich. That's what we call "Off-Broadway" beyond doubt.

Chicago workers struck when boss cut out annual Thanksgiving turkey and $50 Christmas bonus, because of business decline. Generosity must be permanent these days, or else.

TV sets are in 88 per cent of U.S. homes. The other 12 per cent have no arguments with the repair men and still think cowboys and Western marshals hit their targets in the first 100 shots.

Parents are still taking it on chin in fixing blame for schooling of kids in crime by TV. All the child welfare and juvenile crime experts say, "Keep them away from the violent programs." It would be fun watching the battle as some if these experts tried it. Make an Olympic Games event, perhaps.

Another Surplus

Quill, 'Last Of The Red-Hot Militants'

By Victor Riesel

Along The Main Line: For 200 miles I drove by the side of eerily silent rails of the paralyzed "Pennsy". For I was eager to see what even a tiny corner of a general strike would be like. Wherever I stopped to question, they countered with, "What's he like?" — this man whose "job action" dared to tie up almost half the land's rail transport.

Victor Riesel

"He" is Michael Joseph Quill, 55 years old come Sept. 18 — the gift of County Kerry's township, Gourtloughera, to America's tranquilizer pill industry. And, of course, he is the president of the Transport Workers Union.

Though few outside a small New York circle really know Mike — and almost none believed he'd pull off the toughest rail strike of the century — he is labor's swiftest in-fighter, swiftest with a searing insult and quickest to tell labor's national leaders to drop dead when they vex him.

For the most part Quill has stayed inside his own bailiwick, building it with a caustic barrage of red hot militancy.

Always he has been on the verge of a catastrophic strike. Always the other side has caved in — except for the Pennsylvania Railroad last week.

Always he has solidified himself with his men in an industry where the machine must triumph. Always he has done this by slowing the disappearance of transport jobs in a jet age.

BACK IN THE '30s when first I heard of Mike, his voice was coming up louder and louder from a subway change booth job. He was "that Irish fellow who had sold religious objects in Western Pennsylvania until he did the strange thing of going to Vienna for a hip operation with no money at all."

He went from the ship into the subway system during the depression.

There he found, what he has always sought, the unorganized in a low paid field. The subway workers were leaderless and were being kicked around by the aristocrats of the underground — the subway train engineers.

Mike found the cleaners and change makers and track walkers and conductors about to be hit by a pay cut and layoffs.

With the assist from a Communist labor unit, The Trade Union Unity League, Mike started. He saved jobs.

Years later, after he had broken his left-wing alliance, he telephoned me. There was difficulty in Manhattan's giant 59th St. powerhouse.

He has just the story for me. He would show me how to crawl down a conduit and into the vast open centered coal storage dungeons. Once inside I could walk out triumphantly.

WHY TRIUMPHANTLY? This was wartime. I would show the world what an enterprising (and slimmer, too) reporter I was by proving that a man could creep past the guard and put himself in position to blow up the vital electric power plant.

I was almost decapitated but I did it, as Mike said, for the good of my country.

I also learned that Quill then demanded that more men be taken on to protect the installation — HIS TWU members, of course.

He lives with the job status thing. Back in May 1955 we left an international labor conference in Vienna's Concerthaus. We found ourselves walking past the young Soviet machine gun-laden guard in front of the four-power Commandatura.

I needled Quill. "Mike," I said, "here's your chance to say something directly to the Soviet people you admired so much. Say something, anything, for posterity."

Quill stopped, and in his brogue said to the young soldiers, "And what do you think of the tearing down of New York's Third Ave. 'El'?"

The first thing to hit his mind was the leveling of the elevated railroad which would cost several hundred jobs.

THERE ARE those who have ridiculed Quill and his threats — saying that he'd never dare call a strike. But they forget that Mike has always believed in what we once called direct "job action."

That's how he has been able to tie into his TWU all the commercial airline navigators, many missile tracking personnel, train icers on a line from St. Louis to Los Angeles, Pan American clerks and maintenance workers, San Francisco cable car operators, university service people, skilled technicians inside the new electronic testing center at Yuma, Ariz., New Orleans coffee trucks, powerhouse men and air transport service personnel, as well as subway workers.

Any strike he pulls has an automatic built-in crisis. And his people are in 500 cities. That could make a flock of crises. For he's the last of the red hot militants.

An Unforgettable Time

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Twenty-five years ago tonight was one of the unforgettable times for me. Sen. Huey P. Long was dying in a hospital in Baton Rouge, La. It was an uneasy city.

Long had been shot the night before, Sunday, Sept. 8, 1935. Dr. Carl Austin Weiss has been called the assassin. This has never been proved beyond doubt. There was no autopsy. The coroner's inquest was a fast, brief routine.

There is still a question whether one of the Long bodyguards excitedly and accidentally shot Long when he saw Weiss approaching with a gun.

At the time of the shooting I was in New Orleans, working on the Times-Picayune, and immediately afterwards was sent to Baton Rouge to join the T-P staff which was working on the Legislature when Long was shot.

None of us got sleep Sunday, Sunday night, or Monday, or Monday night. Monday night Long began slipping. I was sent over to the hospital just before midnight to join an Associated Press reporter and a girl reporter for the Baton Rouge papers.

We had phones in a small room off the lobby of Our Lady of The Lake Sanitarium. Long's room was upstairs on the second floor. The three of us had been warned by Long's bodyguards not to try to go up those stairs.

There must have been 40 bodyguards, all with guns, in the lobby. Outside another 10 or 12 of them shoulder to shoulder across the top step of the hospital.

All through the night another pair of bodyguards made endless rounds of doors and windows, in the basement and upstairs, to make sure no one could slip in to kill Long in his bed.

The Long people didn't know whether Weiss was acting on his own when he went up to Long with a gun that Sunday night or whether he was part of a conspiracy to kill the senator.

We didn't try the stairs. We knew better. Over the years of the Long regime—in which he controlled the courts, or some of them, the Legislature, the State Police, and some district attorneys—the senator's bodyguards had smashed newsmen's faces and heads.

Only a short time before one of those bodyguards making the rounds of doors and windows had fractured an Associated Press photographer's skull with a blackjack and was never prosecuted.

About 2 a.m. Tuesday the bodyguards in the lobby were nervous and agitated. A nurse had come down and said Long was going, that the doctors were giving him adrenalin.

About 3 a.m. Long's family and some of his top lieutenants came in quickly and went upstairs. About 4 a.m. one of the upstairs bodyguards came down and whispered to the girl reporter. I tried to hear. He said: "Get back you."

I got back. Then I heard him say Long had just died. I ran for the stairs. It was a reflex action. I couldn't phone that Long was dead with nothing to go on but a whisper. I had to go up to his room to verify it.

But that reflex action, made in forgetfulness of the warning not to go near the stairs, has scared me about my own reflex actions ever since. Suddenly all the bodyguards were running for the stairs.

Then the fright set in. I thought "here's where I get it." But I was near the stairs. I couldn't turn back. The bodyguards were all around. They had me squeezed in. I thought "what a way to get it."

And just as suddenly the guards melted away and let me through. I went up the stairs, walking, no longer running, the bodyguards walking slowly behind me, not interfering.

What happened to them at that moment when they had me surrounded and then let me through? I can't be sure. They used to keep in shape beating up newspapermen. Maybe they realized the boss was dead and they didn't have anything more to do.

Maybe something else. Maybe they suddenly realized the one man who had always stood between them and punishment for their violence was gone and they were defenseless. I don't know. For that one moment the fight went out of the Long machine.

It came back later when Huey's brother, Earl, who died last Sunday, became governor. But that moment when I reached the stairs with the bodyguards was the end of an era, before the second one began.

Public Notice

An out-of-state motorist was driving along a New England highway that was unfamiliar to him.

All of a sudden he became aware of a double amber blinker on his left, ahead and above the road.

His puzzlement was soon resolved. In a short distance he saw a side road approaching from the right. The blinker was like a permanent caution, warning the approaching driver to be extra careful.

Within limits, the blinker was like a public notice. The purpose of the notice may vary but basically it is intended to call attention to something. It is designed, moreover, to give due notice. Generally this means sufficient time to enable those concerned to take whatever steps may be necessary to protect their rights and interests, whether collective or individual.

Old Plot, New Cast

By David Lawrence

Martin, Mitchell Defection Follows Pattern

Blackmail and brainwashing by Soviet agents undoubtedly brought about the treason of William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell.

David Lawrence

The whole record in the case is repulsive and may never see the light of day. But the depths to which the Soviet agents stoop nowadays in order to get scraps of information from American military sources are indescribably revolting.

The same tactics which caused Messrs. Burgess and MacLean, the British diplomats, suddenly to defect to Moscow from London would appear to have been used again in the case of the two Americans employed in the hush-hush bureau known as the National Security Agency.

The story goes back to the time Mitchell and Martin lived together while they were in the Navy. They were seclusive individuals who didn't seem to be interested in the opposite sex.

When they went through the first check-up before being employed by the National Security Agency a few years ago, there was nothing derogatory found out about them.

After they were employed, however, an investigation revealed that one of the two had been examined by a psychiatrist who said later that the young men seemed to have inclinations toward sex deviation.

JUST WHY this report didn't result in any action to watch closely the subsequent behavior of the two young men is a mystery. For they went to Mexico together fully a year before their recent defection, and it was undoubtedly while they were in Mexico that they made their first contact with the Soviets.

The threats of blackmail, together with compromising pictures, usually come first. The victim is afraid of what will be disclosed about his personal life, and meets often with the Soviet blackmailers who carry on their brainwashing to the point where the defection becomes inevitable, as seemingly the only way out.

It could be that the Soviet experts began their blackmail in Mexico and decided to train the future defectors to get further information.

The plot was carried out to the point that the Soviets even anticipated possible charges of brainwashing and arranged to have the two young men write out their statement before they left the United States for the Soviet Union.

It was known to government authorities here that they had left such a statement in a safety deposit box at a bank in Maryland, and the text became available to the American government just after the two young men left for Russia, but it was not released for publication.

THE PHRASING of the document, now issued in Moscow, is so much like that which defectors often use, that it bears all the earmarks of careful preparation by Soviet experts. It says, for example:

"In the Soviet Union our main values and interests appear to be shared by a greater number of people. Consequently, we feel that we will be better accepted socially there, and will be better able to carry out our professional activities.

"Another motivating factor is that the talents of women are encouraged and utilized to a much greater extent in the Soviet Union than in the United States. We feel that this enriches Soviet society and makes Soviet women more desirable as mates."

There are references to "capitalist society," "preventive war" and to the "development of nuclear and more powerful means of destruction." And, as if to anticipate charges of brainwashing, the document itself says:

"This statement has been made without consulting with the government of the Soviet Union. . . . We wish to make this explanation in such a way that it cannot be later construed as a propaganda statement inspired by the government of the nation in which we have asked to be allowed to make our homes."

THERE ARE MANY things about the Martin-Mitchell episode which have yet to be explained, and one of them gives a clear indication of the brainwashing.

This is pointed up by a Reuters news service dispatch from Moscow on Tuesday about the press conference which Martin and Mitchell held there. It says:

"Martin and Mitchell referred to the disappearance of an American C130 aircraft over Soviet Armenia in September, 1958, and said it had deliberately crossed the border to get into range of Soviet radar installations.

"The State Department claimed it had been shot down, they said, while Russia said it had crashed.

"The two men said they were told by a high official of the National Security Agency that the plane was on an intelligence flight and feeling that most members of Congress did not know about these flights, they decided to speak privately with a congressman.

"They explained the nature of the C130 flight but the conversation was interrupted by a telephone call from the State Department requesting the congressman to refrain from further discussion of the subject, they said.

"They declined to give the name of the congressman. 'He can name himself if he wants to,' Mitchell said."

American authorities who investigated every angel of the case are convinced that this is an example of brainwashing. For there is indisputable evidence of the crashing of the C130, and there is no evidence whatsoever of any conversations between State Department officials dealing with these problems and any congressman.

On its face, it is absurd to assume that any minor employes in a hush-hush agency would take it upon themselves normally to go to a congressman's office and tell him there were important intelligence flights which he should know about.

The risk of being compromised and detected by such a visit is so great that it seems hardly possible anybody in his right mind would try it.

Letter To The Editor

This letter is meant as an apology to Mr. Floyd Tweed (my neighbor) and to the City Council for having been asked to quell a disturbance against Mr. Tweed.

I have three daughters any parent would be proud of. My oldest is 17 and is waiting to enter nurses' training in order to serve all mankind as a lady and as a practical American citizen.

My second oldest is 16 and will be graduated from East Liverpool High School next spring. She is a born artist with serious intent of following a career in the field of commercial art.

My youngest is 11 years old and full of spice and ginger. Her energy, like that of any 11-year-old, has to be expended, whether it be at home, at school or on the "neighborhood" street corner.

Of course she has playmates. This "gang" mentioned in the Sept. 7 issue of The Review consists of my three daughters and several neighborhood children ranging in age from (mind you now) two (2) to fifteen (15). If those children (whose parents are to blame) continue to sit on our neighbor's small retaining wall or on their own respective porches as they usually do, then perhaps we had better do away with the porches, or?

May I ask of our neighbor—has he always been an adult or was he once a "neighborhood" boy? I imagine I can find a few good answers.

May I add that this "gang by playing near Mr. Tweed's home is within 50 feet of each member's home, playing "Release a peddler", "Sixty Outs", etc., all delinquent games.

Lumumba Gets Confidence Vote

Yield Control Of Congo Radio, Airports; U.N. Told

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Flushed with his oratorical triumph in winning over a hostile Senate, Premier Patrice Lumumba has told the United Nations to yield control over the Congo's radio and airports or leave the country.

Emboldened by the 41-2 confidence vote the Senate accorded him, Lumumba moved swiftly toward a showdown with the U.N. Congo command.

In rapid succession he:

1. Accused the U.N. of obstructing his government by closing airports and radio stations and called for withdrawal of U.N. forces unless the command changes its policies.

2. Threatened to "break off relations with the United Nations, Great Britain or any other country" if the "campaign of hate against the Congo" does not stop.

3. Sent Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold a telegram asking that the next session of the Security Council on the Congo issue be held in Leopoldville.

4. Thanked the Soviet Union "sincerely for the help it has given the Congo."

Shouting out his demands at a hectic news conference, Lumumba declared: "The interference in the internal conflicts shows the position taken by the representatives of the United Nations in the Congo against the central government, which enjoys the confidence of the Parliament of the nation.

"Considering that the central government is capable of assuring the protection of life and property throughout the national territory with the collaboration of the African nations, (it) envisages the retreat in the immediate future of the armed forces of the United Nations in the event they continue to obstruct the action of the government as they are at present."

Lumumba told newsmen a letter he sent to the U.N. command in Leopoldville demanded that the Congo's airports be opened and the national radio returned to the government.

He asserted that seizure of the radio "deprives the citizens of the nation of the possibility of hearing the news of the country and constitutes an act of provocation."

Closing of the country's airports, he added, "prevents their use by the government to assure order and the territorial integrity of the nation."

U.S. Wonderful, Says Winner Of $140,000 Stakes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Southern Pacific streamliner Lark pulled in Thursday towing exporter William Tyler's private car.

After an 8,000-mile trip, Tyler had spent $18,000 of the $140,000 Irish sweepstakes winnings which financed the journey. It was worth it, said Tyler, 76, who told newsmen: "The United States — it's wonderful!"

In his 25-year Pullman porter career, Tyler traveled widely but saw little because he was too busy.

"This time it was different," he said. He and his wife and six friends visited New Orleans, Niagara Falls, New York, Chicago and finally San Francisco in the private car. It was attached usually at the rear of the trains.

Tyler said he was going back to his three-room apartment "and live like I always have. That sweeps winnings is going to last me the rest of my life."

Fire Destroys 2-Car Garage

At least $3,000 damage resulted when fire demolished a 2-car garage Thursday about 7 p. m. on Route 68 at Glasgow Borough in Smiths Ferry, owned by Clifford Blackmore.

Passersby saved a 1958 auto and a 1954 pickup truck.

Charles Blankenship, 40, of Industry R. D. 1 was treated at 9:20 p. m. at City Hospital for contusions and lacerations of the right hand and wrist. He used his hand to break the lock on the car door.

An unidentified man, weighing about 250 pounds, grabbed the bumper of the pickup truck and pulled it to safety.

The garage is near the Blackmore house, which also contains the Post Office. Mr. and Mrs. Blackmore were both upstairs. She is postmaster and was getting ready to attend a postal meeting.

A son, Niles Blackmore, had taken his car from the rear of the garage about 6:45 p. m. and saw no sign of a fire.

About 20 Ohio Township volunteer firemen, including Chief John R. Dawson, responded to a call at 7:05 with two pumper trucks. Dawson said the roof had caved in by the time they arrived.

Firemen extinguished the blaze on the carport at the rear and also saved a pile of lumber. Besides the garage, also destroyed were a small boat and trailer beside it, and inside, an inboard motor, a power mower, extension ladders and a new door that was ready for hanging.

Items in the garage were estimated worth about $2,000, Mrs. Blackmore said.

Chief Dawson said cause of the fire was not known.

The sum of $860 was the estimated value for the property and $1,275 for damage to the residue.

PLEASE DON'T... hurt my Little Girl!

This year, my daughter, who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is "Scoot", sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "goodbye" and started off to the halls of learning.
Last night we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her . . . the girl with the yellow curls . . . and the girl across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head . . . and about the trees in the school yard . . . and about the big girls who don't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about other things, tremendously vital, unimportant things; then we studied spelling, reading and arithmetic . . and then to bed.
Shes upstairs now . . . sound asleep, with "Princess" (that's her doll) cuddled in her right arm. You folks wouldn't hurt her would you? You see, I'm her Mother. When her doll is broken or her finger cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it . . . But when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.
She's a sweet little girl and we're proud of her. She can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk. She likes to swim and hike with her Daddy, on Sunday afternoons. But we can't be with her all the time . . . So please help us look out for her. Please drive carefully, drive slowly past the schools and intersections . . . and please remember that children do run from behind parked cars.

Earlier in the week, Pietranton had testified that he never saw the warrant but that after having it read to him over the telephone he advised that it was defective.

Commission counsel F. Dean Nichols and various commission members took turns pressing Allison with different versions of the same question: Wasn't it unusual for a justice of the peace to be so concerned as to the legal form of a warrant?

At one point Allison explained "it's awfully embarrassing" for a justice to issue a warrant and later have it prove defective.

Sen. J. Hornor Davis II, (D-Kanawha) asked whether Allison had in mind at the time the fact that delay beyond a reasonable period in executing a warrant makes it invalid.

"I never gave that a thought, sir," Allison replied.

Allison had described himself as disturbed about the warrant and commission co-chairman J. C. Crumbkshank, D-Clay, wanted to know why he was disturbed.

"I was disturbed about why he (Virden) was picking out one particular place . . . It might have been just a grudge or something."

Del. William Moreland, D-Monongalia, then said to Allison:

"The truth of the matter is that you just weren't interested in having the Paddock Club or the Jockey Club pulled, were you?"

"No sir, that's not true," Allison replied. He said he never had received any payoffs from persons engaged in illegal activities, adding "I've never protected anybody."

Allison testified that he could recall having had only one gambling case before him in the past two years. He said in that case he accepted a guilty plea and fined a defendant.

Davis asked him if he was not aware of the fact that he had no jurisdiction to accept a plea and levy a fine in a gambling case and had no choice but to hold the defendant for the grand jury. Allison replied that he did not know it at the time.

William G. Lias, who bootlegged on a big-scale here during Prohibition and was a partner in a local gambling casino which operated until 1947, made his heralded appearance as a witness yesterday afternoon.

He testified for 20 minutes.

He said he never bribed any policemen or city officials to leave his gambling operations alone. "There never was no graft to my knowledge in the city of Wheeling," he said.

As Lias explained the system which permitted him and others to run gambling establishments openly, there were periodic payments of fines to the city without interruption of business. Lias said the money went into the city treasury, not to individuals as graft.

He said the city of Wheeling at one time realized "close to $200,000 a year" in fines from gambling places.

"When the city decided not to permit it anymore, it was over, everybody closed up," he said.

Another witness who admitted ownership of about 30 slot machines also denied ever having to pay bribes to stay in business.

"I never paid anybody a dime in my life," said Joe Dobkin of Wheeling, talking about police and city officials. Dobkin and his brother are partners in the Dobkin Automatic Phonograph Co. It has juke boxes, pinball machines and merchandise vending machines.

As to one-armed bandits — slot machines — Dobkin first said only "we own a few." Pressed to be more explicit, he came up with the estimate of about 30.

"We haven't been immune from arrest . . . We lose a machine now and then," Dobkin said.

He also said that he would like to get rid of the slot machines but that if he did so it would have to be within West Virginia. "Not for $100,000," he said, would he sell a slot machine across a state line. Dobkin explained that the passage by Congress of the Johnson Law has made it a felony to transport a slot machine across a state line. And, he added, possession of a slot machine is a felony in nearby Ohio.

There was more testimony on the problems of law enforcement in Weirton. It came from Joseph Rodak, who has been on Weirton's police force since 1950 and its police chief since July of this year.

Rodak said the Weirton police "would have to have one man in each establishment 12 to 18 hours a day" to stamp out illegal sale of liquor there.

He estimated that the city had 75 to 90 establishments licensed to sell beer. As to how many sold whisky illegally, he could say only that not all of them did.

Newell Tavern Permit Suspended For 60 Days

The retail beer license of the Boots & Saddle Club on Washington St. in Newell — termed a "headache" by Sheriff Clayton H. Hobbs of Hancock County — has been suspended for 60 days, effective Sunday.

Sheriff Hobbs made the reference to the tavern during testimony Wednesday afternoon in Wheeling before the West Virginia Crime Commission.

The license was suspended on charges of illegal sale, possession and consumption of liquor on the premises. Alice E. Arb is the permit holder.

Meanwhile, sheriff's deputies continued to serve subpoenaes in the county as the Crime Commission began turning its attention to illegal liquor and gambling activities in Brooke and Ohio Counties.

The sheriff's office in New Cumberland said today that subpoenaes were issued Thursday night to Squire Eugene Allison of Chester and Sam Scrirola of Weirton, an operator of the House of Music.

The commission will begin hearing testimony of witnesses from Brooke County Saturday morning.

Dr. Peale Cited For Attitude On Kennedy's Faith

NEW YORK (AP) — A Liberal party statement authored by two prominent Protestant ministers accuses Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of "blind prejudice" in his attitude toward Sen. John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith.

Dr. John C. Bennett, dean of Union Theological Seminary, and Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, vice president emetirus of Union, both vice-chairmen of the Liberal party, prepared the party statement issued Thursday.

"We believe that Dr. Peale and his associates, though they renounce bigotry, show blind prejudice because they see the Roman Catholic Church at all points in terms of the worst elements in its life, and that they show no understanding of the developments within Roman Catholicism in many Democratic countries which are favorable to religious liberty to all," it said.

Dr. Peale, a supporter of Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, later issued a separate statement.

"After serious and may I say prayerful thought and with no repudiation of my personal conviction I have come to the conclusion that the public agitation of religion as an issue can only be divisive and therefore in the long run harmful to our country," he said.

Dr. Peale said the religious issue will "no doubt be a factor" in deciding voters and that "it should be a matter of personal conscience." He added, however, that his sermons will be "scrupulously without political overtones."

$275,000 Cost Seen For New Control On Driver's Permits

Establishment of a new federal control system that will record the names of all drivers whose permits have been suspended for drunkenness at the wheel or any traffic violation resulting in loss of life is expected to cost $275,000 to $350,000 for the first year's operation.

That's the data Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff received from Sen. Stephen M. Young of Ohio in response to an enquiry about the history of a new federal law and how it will be administered.

Sen. Young forwarded to the judge some of the records gathered by the Senate committee on interstate and foreign commerce in its investigation which preceded enactment of the law.

A voluminous report compiled by Sen. Warren G. Magnuson showed that the committee learned at least one million American driver's licenses are under suspension at any given time. The committee learned that 80 million U. S. residents are licensed to drive.

The federal control system is designed principally to prevent a motorist from going to another state to obtain a permit after his license has been suspended in his home state. Judge Chertoff was particularly interested in the law, pointing out such problems are unusually acute in a city such as East Liverpool at the junction of three state boundaries.

The court frequently finds a traffic violator — resident of Ohio — with a permit issued in West Virginia or Pennsylvania.

Under the new system, all states will report suspended driver's names to the central agency in Washington. Then the officials of any other state can clear the name of a driver's license applicant with the same bureau to find if he is under suspension in some other part of the United States.

The law makes it the responsibility of the Department of Commerce to operate the new license bureau. The law anticipates that the federal government will bear the cost of establishing the bureau but its operating expenses will be offset at least in part by fees paid by states seeking information.

The sleeves are shorter and its proportioned to fit just right, with that polished, well-tailored look. Now is the time to look ahead for the cold days to come. Be smart—make your selection now. You know you can put your coat in layby — Pick it up when the weather is right. Don't wait — make your selection now and step luxuriously into your prettiest fall. Sizes are 6-18 and 5-15 and the prices range from 29.95 up. So you're sure to find one that fits you and your budget, too.

Dr. Peale Cited For Attitude On Kennedy's Faith

NEW YORK (AP) — A Liberal party statement authored by two prominent Protestant ministers accuses Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of "blind prejudice" in his attitude toward Sen. John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith.

Dr. John C. Bennett, dean of Union Theological Seminary, and Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, vice president emetirus of Union, both vice-chairmen of the Liberal party, prepared the party statement issued Thursday.

"We believe that Dr. Peale and his associates, though they renounce bigotry, show blind prejudice because they see the Roman Catholic Church at all points in terms of the worst elements in its life, and that they show no understanding of the developments within Roman Catholicism in many Democratic countries which are favorable to religious liberty to all," it said.

Dr. Peale, a supporter of Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, later issued a separate statement.

"After serious and may I say prayerful thought and with no repudiation of my personal conviction I have come to the conclusion that the public agitation of religion as an issue can only be divisive and therefore in the long run harmful to our country," he said.

Dr. Peale said the religious issue will "no doubt be a factor" in deciding voters and that "it should be a matter of personal conscience." He added, however, that his sermons will be "scrupulously without political overtones."

$275,000 Cost Seen For New Control On Driver's Permits

Establishment of a new federal control system that will record the names of all drivers whose permits have been suspended for drunkenness at the wheel or any traffic violation resulting in loss of life is expected to cost $275,000 to $350,000 for the first year's operation.

That's the data Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff received from Sen. Stephen M. Young of Ohio in response to an enquiry about the history of a new federal law and how it will be administered.

Sen. Young forwarded to the judge some of the records gathered by the Senate committee on interstate and foreign commerce in its investigation which preceded enactment of the law.

A voluminous report compiled by Sen. Warren G. Magnuson showed that the committee learned at least one million American driver's licenses are under suspension at any given time. The committee learned that 80 million U. S. residents are licensed to drive.

The federal control system is designed principally to prevent a motorist from going to another state to obtain a permit after his license has been suspended in his home state. Judge Chertoff was particularly interested in the law, pointing out such problems are unusually acute in a city such as East Liverpool at the junction of three state boundaries.

The court frequently finds a traffic violator — resident of Ohio—with a permit issued in West Virginia or Pennsylvania.

Under the new system, all states will report suspended driver's names to the central agency in Washington. Then the officials of any other state can clear the name of a driver's license applicant with the same bureau to find if he is under suspension in some other part of the United States.

The law makes it the responsibility of the Department of Commerce to operate the new license bureau. The law anticipates that the federal government will bear the cost of establishing the bureau but its operating expenses will be offset at least in part by fees paid by states seeking information.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Mike Wallace Gets A Closeup

Traveling abroad being a major television preoccupation, Mike Wallace is home from what we'd call a rather novel jaunt. He covered America. Well, 25 states of it — 7,500 miles by car, and 1,500 by plane, all in five weeks!

Marie Torre

The trip was prompted not so much by love of country, though Wallace's patriotism is beyond question, as by a TV-radio assignment to find out what Americans are concerned about, and why, in this election year.

It was the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. that commissioned Wallace to make the tapes for the "Closeup USA—1960" series, which has been running on WBC's TV and radio stations and will soon be made into a one-hour special to be offered for syndication.

-:-

AT THIS EARLY stage in his return, Wallace is yawny and travelworn, but his information is nonetheless fresh, stimulating, and provocative.

"One of the subjects we were concerned with," said Wallace, who was accompanied by his wife, a cameraman and reporter from WBC's Washington Bureau, "was what quality or qualities people most wanted in the next chief executive.

"About 80 per cent of the time, the people said strength. They expressed great affection for President Eisenhower, but they also indicated that they wanted a firmer hand, a man with strong convictions.

"The people we talked with felt that both Kennedy and Nixon have this kind of strength, but we found no great enthusiasm for either one. That is, nobody said, 'Nixon's got to get in,' or 'Kennedy is tops.'

"More often than not, people said they probably would vote for Kennedy because they didn't care for Nixon, or that they would vote for Nixon because they didn't think much of Kennedy.

-:-

"INTERESTINGLY enough," Wallace continued, "the one man for whom there is great enthusiasm— all over — is Henry Cabot Lodge. He, it would seem, epitomizes the 'strength' everybody is looking for."

To Wallace, another interesting revelation was the oft-mentioned desire of laborers to have their sons do anything but follow in their footsteps.

"The Oregon lumberjack doesn't want his son to be a lumberjack," explained Wallace. "The San Francisco fisherman doesn't want his son to be a fisherman. The Baltimore longshoreman doesn't want his son to be a longshoreman.

"In every case, they said the job was too hard and the pay too little, and they wanted better for their sons. When you asked these people where the labor force would come from in the future, they said automation would take care of this."

Among other Wallace observations:

"Let me tell you, this is one prosperous country." . . . "People are aware of world problems but are not worried about them." . . . "Kennedy is a shade ahead of Nixon at this moment." . . . "Americans do NOT think, talk, or look alike." . . . "Scenically, this is a beautiful country." . . . "There's good food to be had all over America."

-:-

WE'RE ADVISED by Everett Crosby, brother and manager of Bing, that he has signed the first male singer since he went into business with Bing 30 years ago. The lad is Joe DiStefano, who, in Everett Crosby's words, "is a good-looking, clean-cut young man from Baton Rouge, with a true baritone voice, fine diction and good phrasing." Young DiStefano is also a graduate of Louisiana State University. . . .

Some of the shows to be given on the coming Shirley Temple series on NBC cause us to nurture doubts about the show's "entertainment for all the family" slogan. The first four programs will be "The Land of Oz," "Kim," "Winnie -the - Pooh" and "Tom and Huck." For ma and pa too?. . .

A taped presentation of Tyrone Guthrie's "HMS Pinafore" for the Stratford Festival of Canada will be the first major TV export from Canada to the U.S. in October. . . .

In England, the Indpendent Television Authority ruled that after Dec. 1 there will be only one commercial break in 60-minute TV plays, the break lasting no more than 3 minutes, 10 seconds. American TV, please copy!. . .

Merchants Wait Trip To Game At Massillon

Twenty members of the East Liverpool Merchants Association will board a chartered bus this afternoon at 4 to attend the Potter-Massillon football game at 8 at Roosevelt Stadium in Massillon.

The ELMA delegation will arrive in Massillon at 6 for a dinner with members of the Massillon Merchants Association.

Leslie Blumenthal, chairman of the committee aranging the trip, said the chartered Inter-City Transit Co. bus will leave from the Bus Terminal. There will be seats available on the bus for others who want to join the party and they need not be members of the merchants' group, he said. The ELMA committee also has a few tickets left for the game, he added.

Father Takes Custody Of Boy Held At Chester

The father of a 17-year-old Belington (W.Va.) youth took custody of his son Wednesday night at the Chester city jail, where the boy had been held at the parent's request since Tuesday.

The youth arrived in Chester looking for work and police took him into custody when a phone call to his home revealed a warrant had been filed.

The father said the boy took $1.40 in old coins, but the boy said the money was given to him by an uncle.

Corak Begins Post Shakeup Of Democrats

Burgess Eli Corak of Midland, new Beaver County Democratic chairman, has started a shakeup.

Atty. Eugene A. Caputo of Ambridge received a letter Wednesday that his appointment as executive secretary has been canceled.

It was reported that Corak said Atty. Robert Masters of Midland will get the post. Corak said that he and Masters" live in the same town and understand each other," it was reported.

Caputo said Corak was within his rights to name the secretary and he "has no complaints."

George Werner of Freedom, former county chairman, who resigned, was displeased, however. Told of the letter, he said that Caputo is one of the party's most able leaders.

During the recent election of the new county chairman, Caputo spoke in favor of a vote by ballot rather than by voice which Corak supporters asked. When the vote was taken orally, he voted in favor of Burgess James Camp of Rochester.

Scout Member Drive Planned

Plans for a Boy Scout membership drive and "Roundup" in September were discussed at a meeting of the commissioners' staff of the Cherokee District Wednesday night with Charles Stroup of Newell. About 11 attended.

Eugene Seeley of Chester, district commissioner, led a discussion on the roundtable event next Wednesday at the Tri-State Casting Club at which an attendance goal of 100 has been set.

Robert Gray, district executive, discussed a planned "Get out the Vote" drive and distribution of door-knob hangers by scouts for the vote campaign.

A training session for Cub Scout leaders without previous training will be held Oct. 2.

John Hill reported the Salvation Army plans to sponsor a new Cub Pack.

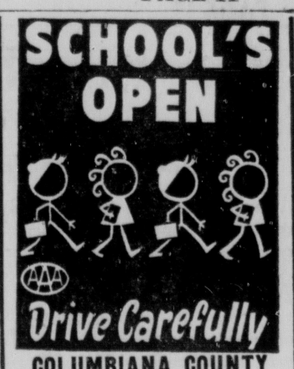

The next meeting will be Oct. 5 with Jack Clark of Wellsville. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stroup.

Ed Lopat, pitching coach for the New York Yankees, won 166 American League games in 12 seasons.

Dayton Has 60 Days To Appeal Rate Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The city of Dayton and Dayton Power & Light Co. have 60 days from today to appeal a rate case to the Ohio Supreme Court.

The Utilities Commission on July 22 authorized the company to increase its gross revenues by $912,351 annually above the ordinance rates in Dayton. The company felt the figure was too low and the city thought it too high, so both filed for a rehearing. But the commission ignored—and thereby rejected—the rehearing petition.

Raccoon Park Projects Set

George Armstrong, superintendent of Raccoon Creek State Park, received word Thursday that the state plans an extensive improvement program next year for the park on Rt. 18 in Raccoon Township.

The General State Authority has allocated $200,000 for construction work when planning is completed by the Green Engineering Co. of Sewickley, for beach and road work.

Plans for a new parking area will be studied. Besides improvements to the beach and access roads, others include a fish restocking program for the two lakes and the upstream watershed. The restocking has been scheduled by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The park had hoped that the fish and beach improvements would go ahead next summer. They have been set for the fall of 1961 since the water level must be lowered.

The commission hopes to eliminate the over-population of forage and pan fish and restock with more desirable game species.

The crowd for the final day of racing at Monmouth Park totaled 43,258, breaking the track's record of 42,867 that had stood since Aug. 8, 1953.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Mental Work

- Radioactive Iodine
- Pyloric Stenosis

Q. Does hard mental work shorten life?

A. Apparently not. Swedish doctors made a study of 2000 persons engaged in various occupations and concluded that mental work, such as university professors undertake, does not shorten life. Nor does mental work increase the tendency to brain tumor, or strokes, according to these doctors.

Q. Will you please discuss the use of radioactive iodine in treatment of thyroid trouble?

A. This subject is very involved. Briefly, radioactive iodine is used in place of surgery in certain cases of overactive thyroid and in conjunction with other therapy in treatment of thyroid tumor. The use of radioactive or "atomic" medicine is relatively new. This type of treatment holds great promise and many medical centers are conducting research on the therapeutic uses of several varieties of radioactive materials.

Q. I have two boys who each developed pyloric stenosis (projectile vomiting) when they were four weeks old. I am expecting my third child. Is there anything to do to prevent this happening again?

A. Pyloric stenosis is an obstructive narrowing of the passageway between the stomach and small intestine. This congenital (present at birth) condition is found most often in infants two to three weeks old. It occurs more often in boys than in girls but the reason for this is unknown. As might be expected, one symptom of pyloric stenosis is projectile vomiting. The obstruction prevents food from passing downward through the narrowed opening. The full stomach contracts and explosive vomiting occurs. Surgery is the only way to correct the condition. There are no precautions that can be taken during pregnancy to prevent the occurrence of pyloric stenosis. Fortunately, the chances are slight that the condition will occur in three successive children.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Mike Wallace Gets A Closeup

Traveling abroad being a major television preoccupation, Mike Wallace is home from what we'd call a rather novel jaunt. He covered America. Well,

Marie Torre

25 states of it — 7,500 miles by car, and 1,500 by plane, all in five weeks!

The trip was prompted not so much by love of country, though Wallace's patriotism is beyond question, as by a TV-radio assignment to find out what Americans are concerned about, and why, in this election year.

It was the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. that commissioned Wallace to make the tapes for the "Closeup USA—1960" series, which has been running on WBC's TV and radio stations and will soon be made into a one-hour special to be offered for syndication.

-:-

AT THIS EARLY stage in his return, Wallace is yawny and travelworn, but his information is nonetheless fresh, stimulating, and provocative.

"One of the subjects we were concerned with," said Wallace, who was accompanied by his wife, a cameraman and reporter from WBC's Washington Bureau, "was what quality or qualities people most wanted in the next chief executive.

"About 80 per cent of the time, the people said strength. They expressed great affection for President Eisenhower, but they also indicated that they wanted a firmer hand, a man with strong convictions.

"The people we talked with felt that both Kennedy and Nixon have this kind of strength, but we found no great enthusiasm for either one. That is, nobody said, 'Nixon's got to get in,' or 'Kennedy is tops.'

"More often than not, people said they probably would vote for Kennedy because they didn't care for Nixon, or that they would vote for Nixon because they didn't think much of Kennedy.

-:-

"INTERESTINGLY enough," Wallace continued, "the one man for whom there is great enthusiasm— all over — is Henry Cabot Lodge. He, it would seem, epitomizes the 'strength' everybody is looking for."

To Wallace, another interesting revelation was the oft-mentioned desire of laborers to have their sons do anything but follow in their footsteps.

"The Oregon lumberjack doesn't want his son to be a lumberjack," explained Wallace. "The San Francisco fisherman doesn't want his son to be a fisherman. The Baltimore longshoreman doesn't want his son to be a longshoreman.

"In every case, they said the job was too hard and the pay too little, and they wanted better for their sons. When you asked these people where the labor force would come from in the future, they said automation would take care of this."

Among other Wallace observations:

"Let me tell you, this is one prosperous country." . . . "People are aware of world problems but are not worried about them." . . . "Kennedy is a shade ahead of Nixon at this moment." . . . "Americans do NOT think, talk, or look alike." . . . "Scenically, this is a beautiful country." . . . "There's good food to be had all over America."

-:-

WE'RE ADVISED by Everett Crosby, brother and manager of Bing, that he has signed the first male singer since he went into business with Bing 30 years ago. The lad is Joe DiStefano, who, in Everett Crosby's words, "is a good-looking, clean-cut young man from Baton Rouge, with a true baritone voice, fine diction and good phrasing." Young DiStefano is also a graduate of Louisiana State University. . . .

Some of the shows to be given on the coming Shirley Temple series on NBC cause us to nurture doubts about the show's "entertainment for all the family" slogan. The first four programs will be "The Land of Oz," "Kim," "Winnie -the - Pooh" and "Tom and Huck." For ma and pa too? . . .

A taped presentation of Tyrone Guthrie's "HMS Pinafore" for the Stratford Festival of Canada will be the first major TV export from Canada to the U.S. in October. . . .

In England, the Indpendent Television Authority ruled that after Dec. 1 there will be only one commercial break in 60-minute TV plays, the break lasting no more than 3 minutes, 10 seconds. American TV, please copy! . . .

Merchants Wait Trip To Game At Massillon

Twenty members of the East Liverpool Merchants Association will board a chartered bus this afternoon at 4 to attend the Potter-Massillon football game at 8 at Roosevelt Stadium in Massillon.

The ELMA delegation will arrive in Massillon at 6 for a dinner with members of the Massillon Merchants Association.

Leslie Blumenthal, chairman of the committee aranging the trip, said the chartered Inter-City Transit Co. bus will leave from the Bus Terminal. There will be seats available on the bus for others who want to join the party and they need not be members of the merchants' group, he said. The ELMA committee also has a few tickets left for the game, he added.

Father Takes Custody Of Boy Held At Chester

The father of a 17-year-old Belington (W.Va.) youth took custody of his son Wednesday night at the Chester city jail, where the boy had been held at the parent's request since Tuesday.

The youth arrived in Chester looking for work and police took him into custody when a phone call to his home revealed a warrant had been filed.

The father said the boy took $1.40 in old coins, but the boy said the money was given to him by an uncle.

Raccoon Park Projects Set

George Armstrong, superintendent of Raccoon Creek State Park, received word Thursday that the state plans an extensive improvement program next year for the park on Rt. 18 in Raccoon Township.

The General State Authority has allocated $200,000 for construction work when planning is completed by the Green Engineering Co. of Sewickley, for beach and road work.

Plans for a new parking area will be studied. Besides improvements to the beach and access roads, others include a fish restocking program for the two lakes and the upstream watershed. The restocking has been scheduled by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The park had hoped that the fish and beach improvements would go ahead next summer. They have been set for the fall of 1961 since the water level must be lowered.

The commission hopes to eliminate the over-population of forage and pan fish and restock with more desirable game species.

The crowd for the final day of racing at Monmouth Park totaled 43,258, breaking the track's record of 42,867 that had stood since Aug. 8, 1953.

Corak Begins Post Shakeup Of Democrats

Burgess Eli Corak of Midland, new Beaver County Democratic chairman, has started a shakeup.

Atty. Eugene A. Caputo of Ambridge received a letter Wednesday that his appointment as executive secretary has been canceled.

It was reported that Corak said Atty. Robert Masters of Midland will get the post. Corak said that he and Masters" live in the same town and understand each other," it was reported.

Caputo said Corak was within his rights to name the secretary and he "has no complaints."

George Werner of Freedom, former county chairman, who resigned, was displeased, however. Told of the letter, he said that Caputo is one of the party's most able leaders.

During the recent election of the new county chairman, Caputo spoke in favor of a vote by ballot rather than by voice which Corak supporters asked. When the vote was taken orally, he voted in favor of Burgess James Camp of Rochester.

Scout Member Drive Planned

Plans for a Boy Scout membership drive and "Roundup" in September were discussed at a meeting of the commissioners' staff of the Cherokee District Wednesday night with Charles Stroup of Newell. About 11 attended.

Eugene Seeley of Chester, district commissioner, led a discussion on the roundtable event next Wednesday at the Tri-State Casting Club at which an attendance goal of 100 has been set.

Robert Gray, district executive, discussed a planned "Get out the Vote" drive and distribution of door-knob hangers by scouts for the vote campaign.

A training session for Cub Scout leaders without previous training will be held Oct. 2.

John Hill reported the Salvation Army plans to sponsor a new Cub Pack.

The next meeting will be Oct. 5 with Jack Clark of Wellsville. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stroup.

Ed Lopat, pitching coach for the New York Yankees, won 166 American League games in 12 seasons.

Dayton Has 60 Days To Appeal Rate Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The city of Dayton and Dayton Power & Light Co. have 60 days from today to appeal a rate case to the Ohio Supreme Court.

The Utilities Commission on July 22 authorized the company to increase its gross revenues by $912,351 annually above the ordinance rates in Dayton. The company felt the figure was too low and the city thought it too high, so both filed for a rehearing. But the commission ignored—and thereby rejected—the rehearing petition.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Good Muscle Tone Boosts Morale

Regular exercise is noticeably rewarding. Specific calisthenics can shift the fat away from certain spots. Exercise is known to promote the retention of protein and calcium, nutrients which shore up sagging tissue. And exercise helps you look and be slim, firm and shapely. Live tone in abdominal muscles not only will help banish the spread, but the middle-age feeling as well.

By Ida Jean Kain

WHY IS TONE in the muscular girdle so important? To begin with, the abdomen is one of nature's favorite parking places for fat. And this fat padding affords a certain amount of support for the vital organs. As the fat is removed, the muscles in that area must be restored to tone so as to be strong enough to do the job.

A buoyant feeling of well-being depends on keeping the vital organs in their normally high position — also your figure will look young and you'll feel young. Even if you skip all other calisthenics, go through this easy routine.

Take the exercise from a safety position to avoid strain and counteract gravity. The safety position is this — lying on back on floor, knees flexed, soles of feet on floor.

Here is the daily routine: Safety position — arms relaxed overhead.

Movement: Firmly contract the abdominal muscles and tilt the pelvis so that the lower back is flattened against the floor. Hold for a few seconds, relax and repeat. Do this one 10 times, breathing naturally.

—:—

FOR MORE action: Safety position — arms down at sides.

Movement: Lift one vertebra at a time off the floor. The aim is to try to curl the tip of the spine upwards, making the end of the spine lift itself up. Then uncurl spine, lowering back to floor one vertebra after another. Repeat the routine three times, rest, repeat three times. Later increase to five times.

Finish with the hammock swing. Safety position — arms out at sides at shoulder level.

Movement: Raise hips off floor and, strongly contracting the side-front abdominal muscles, tilt the left hip upward. Back to center and tilt the hips to the right side, again pulling in strongly with the side - front muscles. Gradually work up to 10 counts each side.

Make this easy routine part of your daily living, and you'll feel more alive.

Note to thin girls: Next week the dietitian will be in your corner with a special series.

'Sky Shield' Exercise Set For Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jet bombers flying miles high or flashing along low at almost tree-top height will begin stabbing in toward United States and Canadian targets in the black pre-dawn hours of Saturday.

Hundreds of interceptors from the air forces of the two countries will rise to meet them, guided by continent-spanning radar warning and control systems.

Missile launching sites will track the invading bombers, and simulate firings against them. But no missiles will be launched, no shots fired.

Exercise "Sky Shield," set to start about 1 a.m. Saturday and last for six hours, is intended purely as a training exercise for the plane crews, ground radar warning systems, ships of the Navy, missile posts and other elements of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) — a joint U.S.-Canadian continental defense organization.

Sky Shield will not be a "contest" between defenders of NORAD and attacking B52 and B47 jet bombers of the Strategic Air Command, the Defense Department insists.

But it will be the biggest such training operation yet, designed to show the almost 200,000 air and ground crews what to expect in an actual manned bomber attack by the Soviet Union against the North American continent.

Keep In Trim

Good Muscle Tone Boosts Morale

Regular exercise is noticeably rewarding. Specific calisthenics can shift the fat away from certain spots. Exercise is known to promote the retention of protein and calcium, nutrients which shore up sagging tissue. And exercise helps you look and be slim, firm and shapely. Live tone in abdominal muscles not only will help banish the spread, but the middle-age feeling as well.

By Ida Jean Kain

WHY IS TONE in the muscular girdle so important? To begin with, the abdomen is one of nature's favorite parking places for fat. And this fat padding affords a certain amount of support for the vital organs. As the fat is removed, the muscles in that area must be restored to tone so as to be strong enough to do the job.

A buoyant feeling of well-being depends on keeping the vital organs in their normally high position — also your figure will look young and you'll feel young. Even if you skip all other calisthenics, go through this easy routine.

Take the exercise from a safety position to avoid strain and counteract gravity. The safety position is this — lying on back on floor, knees flexed, soles of feet on floor.

Here is the daily routine: Safety position — arms relaxed overhead.

Movement: Firmly contract the abdominal muscles and tilt the pelvis so that the lower back is flattened against the floor. Hold for a few seconds, relax and repeat. Do this one 10 times, breathing naturally.

—:—

FOR MORE action: Safety position — arms down at sides.

Movement: Lift one vertebra at a time off the floor. The aim is to try to curl the tip of the spine upwards, making the end of the spine lift itself up. Then uncurl spine, lowering back to floor one vertebra after another. Repeat the routine three times, rest, repeat three times. Later increase to five times.

Finish with the hammock swing. Safety position — arms out at sides at shoulder level.

Movement: Raise hips off floor and, strongly contracting the side-front abdominal muscles, tilt the left hip upward. Back to center and tilt the hips to the right side, again pulling in strongly with the side - front muscles. Gradually work up to 10 counts each side.

Make this easy routine part of your daily living, and you'll feel more alive.

Note to thin girls: Next week the dietitian will be in your corner with a special series.

'Sky Shield' Exercise Set For Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jet bombers flying miles high or flashing along low at almost treetop height will begin stabbing in toward United States and Canadian targets in the black pre-dawn hours of Saturday.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My steady has a hot temper. He's the kind who will get out of the car and fight over a parking space.

Last month he got into a fist fight with a man who crowded ahead of him in line at the ball game. They were both hauled in and booked for disorderly conduct.

I was embarrassed to death when they took my boy friend away in the patrol wagon. I told him the next day if he ever got into another brawl he and I were through.

Yesterday he came over with one eye swollen shut and his left hand bandaged. Before I could say a word he say, "You'll never believe it — I walked into a swinging door."

I answered, "You're right. I don't believe it. Goodbye."

I shoved him out and bolted the door.

He has called four times and begged my mother to put me on the phone. Mom says maybe I was hasty but she doesn't know he has hit me twice.

He swears if I give him one more chance he'll be good. Please help me decide. — QUIET GIRL.

-:-

Dear Quiet: Write this boy off permanently. Any girl who marries a fellow who has "hit her twice" during courtship can expect to be slapped around plenty after marriage. Kissing through bandages is no way to spend a life.

Sadder But Wiser

Dear Ann: I'm a 16-year-old girl who wrote for advice in May. I didn't like what you told me and decided to do it my way. Now I'd give my right arm if I had listened to you.

I asked if it would be all right to go visit my boy friend when school was out. He used to live here and had to move to another city when his father was transferred.

Lex is 17 and we used to go steady. You told me I should not stay in his home and you outlined the reasons.

I went anyway. After three days, what you warned against happened. We did things we had no business doing. I became nervous and hated myself and him, too. I was so irritable I got into a fight with his sister and his mother.

By the end of the first week I was asked to go home. Lex's dad drove me to the train and Lex did not even say goodbye to me. My parents know something went wrong but they don't know what. I feel like the lowest thing that crawls.

Please print this with a final word from me to all teen-agers: When you ask for Ann's advice — take it.—MESSED-UP GIRL.

Sensitive Child

Dear Ann Landers: Our 11-year-old went fishing for the first time, with her uncle and cousins. She came home heartsick. She couldn't bear to see a fish with a hook in its mouth. Elizabeth is a sensitive child and it upsets her to see suffering of any kind.

I once heard that fish don't suffer. Will you say something about this in your column so I can show it to her? Many thanks. — NO EXPERT.

-:-

Dear No Expert (That makes two of us): My Outdoor Authority tells me that fish feel no pain from a hook in the mouth. It's only when a fish swallows the hook that he suffers and should be killed promptly. A fish hooked in the mouth can be released and will live.

Confidentially

TO WINNING BY A HEAD: It's your hair and your wedding. Do as you please. If it's my personal opinion you want, I agree with your mother. A bride with a boyish bob leaves something to be desired.

-:-

TO DECENT GUY: If you're so decent, how come you're a candidate for this hurry-up phony deal? This girl must have some grounds for putting you in this position.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Idle Railmen To Get Checks

To speed up distribution of pay checks to furloughed and striking employes in its Pittsburgh Region, the Pennsylvania Railroad has canceled its plan to use local banks and will mail all checks to employes' homes.

An estimated 150 from the Wellsville Yards are idle with over 2,000 at the Conway Yards.

Mailing started Thursday for employes who would normally have been paid on Wednesday and Thursday, with the exception of those in train and engine service. It is expected that the mailing to this first group can be completed today.

Mailing started today for all train and engine service employes who have pay due, and for those in all other work classifications whose normal pay day would have been today. It is expected that final mailings will be completed on Monday.

Wednesday, Sept. 14, had originally been scheduled as pay day through many banks throughout the region. Checks are normally distributed at numerous points over the railroad, most of which are either closed or picketed.

Railroad officials pointed out that any delays in distribution of checks are strictly the result of the strike situation. Most of the time cards on which pay is based normally move from outlying points to the auditor's office in Pittsburgh by railroad service (company) mail, it was pointed out. Since the start of the strike, there has been no railroad service mail and U. S. mail service has not been as fast. Information for the time cards and the cards themselves originate in isolated offices over the railroad.

Beaver Unemployment Office To Mail Checks

Unemployment compensation claimants are urged not to call at the Beaver Falls Bureau of Employment Security office for their checks during the railroad shutdown.

The office said that emergency arrangements have been made to maintain a normal mailing and delivery of unemployment compensation checks to claimants' homes in this area.

The schedule established should, with a few exceptions, provide delivery in the same elapsed time as when rail transportation is used, the office said.

Also, there will be no change in the operation of the local office or the scheduling of claimants.

Second baseman Marv Breeding of the Baltimore Orioles is the only rookie in the league wearing uniform No. 1.

Couple Named Nixon-Lodge County Heads

A city husband and wife team has been named to head the Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in Columbiana County, according to Dr. Clyde Williams of Columbus, chairman of the Republican unit.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Johnston, 805 Alton St., have been appointed to lead the campaign, and have started to form a number of Nixon-Lodge Clubs in the county.

Johnston, a native of Chester, has resided here since 1958, and is a Horace Mann school teacher. He is a graduate of West Liberty State College and attended Geneva College.

He is a member of the East Central Ohio Teachers Association, the City Teachers Association and the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Johnston, the former Angela Caprauola, is a graduate of East Liverpool High School and is a member of th Catholic Daughters of America and St. Aloysius Catholic Church. They have a daughter, Tracy Ann, 9-months-old.

Idle Railmen To Get Checks

To speed up distribution of pay checks to furloughed and striking employes in its Pittsburgh Region, the Pennsylvania Railroad has canceled its plan to use local banks and will mail all checks to employes' homes.

An estimated 150 from the Wellsville Yards are idle with over 2,000 at the Conway Yards.

Mailing started Thursday for employes who would normally have been paid on Wednesday and Thursday, with the exception of those in train and engine service. It is expected that the mailing to this first group can be completed today.

Mailing started today for all train and engine service employes who have pay due, and for those in all other work classifications whose normal pay day would have been today. It is expected that final mailings will be completed on Monday.

Wednesday, Sept. 14, had originally been scheduled as pay day through many banks throughout the region. Checks are normally distributed at numerous points over the railroad, most of which are either closed or picketed.

Railroad officials pointed out that any delays in distribution of checks are strictly the result of the strike situation. Most of the time cards on which pay is based normally move from outlying points to the auditor's office in Pittsburgh by railroad service (company) mail, it was pointed out. Since the start of the strike, there has been no railroad service mail and U. S. mail service has not been as fast. Information for the time cards and the cards themselves originate in isolated offices over the railroad.

Beaver Unemployment Office To Mail Checks

Unemployment compensation claimants are urged not to call at the Beaver Falls Bureau of Employment Security office for their checks during the railroad shutdown.

The office said that emergency arrangements have been made to maintain a normal mailing and delivery of unemployment compensation checks to claimants' homes in this area.

The schedule established should, with a few exceptions, provide delivery in the same elapsed time as when rail transportation is used, the office said.

Also, there will be no change in the operation of the local office or the scheduling of claimants.

Second baseman Marv Breeding of the Baltimore Orioles is the only rookie in the league wearing uniform No. 1.

Braves Top Giants, Trail By 6; Orioles Rout Indians, 9-0

Spahn Wins 18th Game, Belts Homer

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the words of Milwaukee Manager Charlie Dressen, the Braves is not dead yet.

Not with guys like Ed Mathews driving in five runs on a pair of homers and Warren Spahn closing in on yet another 20-victory season as they did while clobbering San Francisco 9-4 Thursday night.

Spahnie, working for the third time in four days, won his 18th and crashed a home run along with Mathews and Hank Aaron as the Braves moved within six games of first place Pittsburgh. They also gained a virtual second place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, who like the Pirates were idle, in the National League race.

The defending champion Dodgers, 10½ games behind in fourth, won 7-4 at Cincinnati Thursday night. The Cubs beat Philadelphia 2-1.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles regained a 1½ game lead, erupting for all their runs in the seventh inning while Jack Fisher pitched his third straight shutout in a 9-0 victory at Cleveland. The Chicago White Sox beat second place New York 5-4. Washington whipped Kansas City 7-0, and Boston beat Detroit 6-1.

Mathews, no longer a sluggish slugger, unloaded a two-run homer in the first inning, then tagged a three-run shot off loser Mike McCormick (12-11) in the second. Aaron hit his in the first.

Spahn, 39, beaten as a starter and in relief at Pittsburgh on Monday and Tuesday, bounced back with an eight-hit job and hit his third home run of the year in the eighth off reliever Billy Loes.

Norm Larker drove in three runs with a pair of singles for the Dodgers, who wrapped up their scoring in the first two innings against loser Jay Hook (10-16). Sandy Koufax (7-12) was the winner with an eight-hitter.

Rookie Art Mahaffey lost his first since called up by the Phils, although allowing just four hits by the Cubs in his seven innings. Ernier Banks' 39th home run scored Chicago's first run, and Ron Santo's single scored the clincher in the sixth after a triple by Bob Will. Glen Hobbie (14-17) was the winner.

Russia Clinches First Place In Olympics

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

ROME (AP) — Soviet Russia, its gold medal and team point leadership over the United States assured, looked to more of the so-called minor sports it excels in today to fatten its domination of the 1960 Olympic Games.

The first results of the day gave an indication of what was to come. In the first quarter-final match of the team epee fencing tournament, the Russians quickly advanced to the semifinals with a 9-2 victory over Germany. Italy beat Sweden 9-3 and will meet Russia in the semis.

With track and field ended except for Saturday's marathon race, the day's Olympic schedule showed competition in shooting, gymnastics, weightlifting, horsemanship, and fencing—sports in which the Soviets have been scoring well and regularly.

Shooting finals were scheduled in clay pigeon and rapid fire pistol with Russians leading at the halfway mark in each. The only U.S. possibility was Marine Capt. Bill McMillan of Turtle Creek, Pa., who was second at the midway point of the rapid fire pistol. Lt. Jim Clark of Bartlesville, Okla., was fifth at the same stage in the clay pigeon event.

Both Capt. McMillan and the leader, Russia's Evceniy Cherkosav, were running ahead of the world and Olympic record pace.

Except for McMillan and John Kelley's remote hopes in Saturday's marathon, America's only other gold medal of the games which end Sunday would come from the unbeaten basketball team, which won its seventh straight game, 112-81 over Italy Thursday night.

A victory over Brazil would clinch it for the all-star club coached by California's Pete Newell.

The track and field games wound up Thursday in a surge of glory for some of the Americans and a day of doom for one.

Wilma Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., anchored the U.S. women 400 meter relay team to her third gold medal of the 1960 Olympics, placing her in a select class with all-time greats.

But her boy friend, Ray Norton, of Oakland, Calif., ran outside his zone of limitation in taking the baton in the men's 400 meter finals and the Americans were disqualified after it appeared they had beaten the Germans.

For Norton it was the climax to a dismal flop. He ran last in both the 100 and 200 meter sprints—the man rated on form to be the top favorite.

Wilma emerged the top star. She won the three gold medals the U.S. women collected to go with the men's nine. The Russians got 11 track and field firsts, six by their women, a sizeable dent in what the Americans once considered their own back yard.

The disqualification, though, spoiled what would have been a rousing finish for Uncle Sam. The men's 1600 meter relay team raced to victory in a world record of 3:02.2, breaking Jamaica's eight-year-old mark of 3:03.9. Jack Herman, Woodland, Calif., did 46.7, Earl Young of San Fernando, Calif., :45.6, Glenn Davis, Columbus, Ohio :45.5 and then Otis Davis, the new 400-meter king from Los Angeles, clocked an anchor leg at :44.4.

Davis had to run the fastest 400 from a moving start in world track history to beat Germany's Carl Kaufmann who was second in :44.5.

In the final field events, the United States was shut out. Russia's Viktor Cybulenko won the javelin with 278-8⅜. Al Cantello, Norristown, Pa., world record holder at 282-3½, threw only 245-1 and never got to the finals. Romania's Iolanda Dalas captured the women's high jump at 6-1⅛ in which the only American, Neomia Rogers of Roba, Ala., went out early.

The 10,000 meter grind went to another Russian, Peter Bolotnikov, in 28:32.3, better than the 28:45.6 Olympic mark of his countryman, Vladimir Kuts, but short of the latter's world mark of 28:30.4.

Max Truex, of Warsaw, Ind., the lone American entry, surprised with a fine sixth place showing in 28:50.2, the fastest he ever has run the event.

The Russians also picked up two gold medals in weightlifting, with Alexander Kurynov beating Tommy Kono, Honolulu, in the middleweight division on a lift of 964 pounds that cracked Kono's world record. Kono was second with a lift of 942 pounds.

The Grand Prix de Dressage in the equestrian competition also was won by Russia.

With the Olympics drawing to a close Sunday, the unofficial team title once more seemed to be Russia's with 34 gold medals and 618 points. The United States had 32 gold medals and 511½ points.

USSR Attempts To Fatten Lead In Minor Sports Events Today

Fisher Runs Shutouts To 3 Straight

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Opening day, Baltimore beat Washington 3-2 behind Jack Fisher's 3 2-3 innings of three-hit, shutout relief. Now there are just 18 games left, and that same young right-hander has pitched his third consecutive shutout, winning his sixth in a row as the Orioles clobbered Cleveland in a 9-0 outburst Thursday night that restored their 1½-game lead in the American League.

The Chicago White Sox, with Ted Kluszewski driving in three runs, knocked off New York 5-4, after the second place Yankees had edged within a half-game of the top. The White Sox are third, still 4½ games behind.

Washington rapped Kansas City 7-0, and Boston beat Detroit 6-1 in the other AL games.

In the National League, Milwaukee whipped San Francisco 9-4, moved within six games of first place Pittsburgh and gained a virtual tie with runner-up St. Louis. Both the Pirates and Cards were idle. Los Angeles defeated Cincinnati 7-4, and Chicago's Cubs edged Philadelphia 2-1.

Fisher, 21, who blanked the White Sox and Yankees in his last two starts, extended his shutout-inning string to 27 with a five-titter against the Indians. But he didn't get a chance to coast until the seventh inning, when the Birds broke through for all their runs as 13 men went to bat against loser Dick Stigman (5-10) and two relievers.

The Yankees blew a 4-2 lead after a two-out muff by first baseman Bill Skowron in the seventh. Gene Freese started the rally with a leadoff home run against Yank ace Art Ditmar, who left after an infield single by Luis Aparicio and the error.

Al Smith hung the loss on reliever Luis Arroyo (4-1) with a single that made it 4-3, and Klu then wrapped it up with a two-run double off southpaw Bobby Shantz.

Lennie Green and Jim Lemon homered for the Nats in support of Jack Kralick (7-4), who beat the A's and Dick Hall (7-12) with a seven-hitter. Ted Williams walloped home run No. 27, the 519th of his career.

Browns, Lions May Have Eye On Track Star

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown would like no better birthday present from his Cleveland Browns than a victory over the Chicago Bears in Saturday night's exhibition clash at Akron's Rubber Bowl.

Brown reached his 52nd birthday Wednesday, but there was no celebration. Work went on as usual at the practice session at League Park.

The workout Thursday was cut by one third—to one hour—because of the heat. Gern Nagler, the end who was sidelined last week against San Francisco because of a knee injury, looked ready for action against the Bears.

Several Browns were breathing easier with news that the National Football League player limit has been expanded from 36 to 38 for the 1960 season.

The move was approved by club owners to help the Dallas Cowboys, new entry in the league, who will be permitted to buy one player from each of the other teams in a drafting program somewhat similar to the one by which the Cowboys were stocked originally.

Each of the 12 clubs will list 36 "untouchables." Dallas will be able to pick any one player from those remaining over the 36.

In the case of the Browns, who are down to 42 players on their roster, Dallas will have six players to pick from after Cleveland names the 36 it wishes to keep. Dallas must complete negotiations for purchase of players by Sept. 19.

A report has cropped up that both Cleveland and Detroit are interested in Glenn Davis, America's Olympic 400-meter hurdles champ, as a pro football prospect. Davis concentrated on track at Ohio State, but was an all-around athlete and a fine football player at Barberton until he suffered a shoulder separation. He now is a school teacher in Columbus.

Hayes Claims Bucks Speediest Since 1955

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes told a group of touring Big Ten sports writers Thursday that the Buckeyes will have their speediest squad since 1955. He also said it's possible that seven to nine sophomores will play on the first two units.

Hayes said his best players are quarterback Tom Matte of Cleveland, fullback Bob Ferguson of Troy and linemen Mike Ingram of Bellaire and Jim Tyrer of Newark.

FROM THE LOOKS OF THINGS, it seems you have to be a football hero to get along with the beautiful girls. At least that was the way it happened Thursday night as Dan Corbisello, with Potter reserve cheerleaders Colleen Bucher (left) and Sandra Cronin (right), were pictured on a float which depicted a gridiron during the "Beat Massillon" parade in the downtown area.

BOB MACKALL (extreme left) All-Ohio quarterback at ELHS last season, chauffeured these four Potters along the parade route Thursday as the Gridders wave to the crowd which flooded the downtown area last night.

'Beat Massillon' Parade Witnessed By 1,000 Fans

Some 1,000 enthusiastic fans lined downtown streets Thursday night to view a parade sponsored by the Blue and White Nonpareil Club which marked the climax to the "Beat Massillon" campaign in East Liverpool.

The Potter football team was given another sendoff today on the Diamond at 4 p. m. as the squad departed for Massillon to meet the state's defending football champs.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet was grand marshal for Thursday night's parade.

Members of the football squad, coaches, cheerleaders, managers and members of the Board of Education rode in the parade.

Several marching units and floats highlighted the parade. Music was furnished by the East Liverpool High School band, the "Crockery City" jazz band, the Shrine Band and a Snake Dance band.

Floats were prepared by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Explorer Boy Scout Troop sponsored by St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

Free candy, gum and balloons were distributed to children along the parade route.

Frank Dawson was chairman of the parade committee for the Nonpareil Club.

Norton Becomes Goat Of Olympics

ROME (AP)—"I can't do anything right," said Ray Norton dejectedly. "First I run too slow, then I run too fast.

"So what happens? I become the goat of the Olympics. There's nothing I can do about it. It's a memory I'll have to live with for life."

The world collapsed Thursday for the rangy San Jose State College student from Oakland, Calif., America's champion sprinter. His series of failures was climaxed by a blunder which cost the United States a victory in the 400-meter relay.

Norton, running the second leg, became too anxious and overran his zone in receiving the baton from teammate Frank Budd of Asbury Park, N.J.

The Americans nipped the strong German team at the wire in a fantastic race, with Dave Sime running a tremendous anchor, only to be disqualified because of Norton's error.

Previously Norton—by his own admission "tied up in knots" from nervousness—had run last in the six-man finals of the 100 and 200 meter races, losing for America a sprint dominancy which it had held for 32 years.

Thursday's mistake was a crowning blow. The tall Negro athlete tried to keep his chin up, but he couldn't completely hide all the agonies that chewed away at him.

"Ray can't fool me, I can tell," said Wilma Rudolph, winner of three gold medals and America's heroine of the women's track competition. "He tries to play it cool, but I know. He is dying inside."

Wilma won her third gold medal by anchoring the women's relay team to victory and then fled Olympic stadium in tears Thursday because of Norton's shame.

Ray and Wilma are the strange goat and heroine sweetheart combination of these 17th Olympic games. They have been inseparable. Ray has cheered the willowy Tennessee girl in her historic sprint triumphs. Wilma has commiserated with Ray during his mushrooming miseries.

"After I get home from this trip, I don't think I'll ever run again," Norton said. "I've had it. Now I'd better go out and try to make a living. I hate to end my career on this sour note, but that's the way it has to be."

U.S. Cagers 1 Game Away From Crown

ROME (AP) — America's basketball team appeared a lead pipe-cinch today to win the Olympic championship.

It needs only a closing victory over Brazil Saturday night for an 8-0 record. And, unless the Americans try playing only four men at a time, there should be no concern about the United States dropping its first Olympic decision, or even losing the gold medal.

The Americans Thursday night shook off a stubborn Italian team, 112-81, after leading only 54-48 at halftime. Ohio State's Jerry Lucas was the big gun, scoring 26 points — 20 in the first half.

That was the fifth time the high-geared U.S. club has surpassed the 100-point mark and it was its second highest score of the Olympic competition. The Americans trounced Japan 125-26.

Russia Thursday night wore down a spirited Brazil team 64-62, which gave the Soviets a 1-1 record in the four-team scrap for the top four positions. Brazil also is 1-1 while Italy is 0-2 and the United States 2-0.

If Russia beats Italy Saturday night, then the United States could lose to Brazil by 22 points and still win the gold medal.

However, if Italy beats Russia, then the following USA-Brazil game is a head-to-head affair with the winner taking the championship.

Braves Top Giants, Trail By 6; Orioles Rout Indians, 9-0

Spahn Wins 18th Game, Belts Homer

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the words of Milwaukee Manager Charlie Dressen, the Braves is not dead yet.

Not with guys like Ed Mathews driving in five runs on a pair of homers and Warren Spahn closing in on yet another 20-victory season as they did while clobbering San Francisco 9-4 Thursday night.

Spahnie, working for the third time in four days, won his 18th and crashed a home run along with Mathews and Hank Aaron as the Braves moved within six games of first place Pittsburgh. They also gained a virtual second place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, who like the Pirates were idle, in the National League race.

The defending champion Dodgers, 10½ games behind in fourth, won 7-4 at Cincinnati Thursday night. The Cubs beat Philadelphia 2-1.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles regained a 1½ game lead, erupting for all their runs in the seventh inning while Jack Fisher pitched his third straight shutout in a 9-0 victory at Cleveland. The Chicago White Sox beat second place New York 5-4. Washington whipped Kansas City 7-0, and Boston beat Detroit 6-1.

Mathews, no longer a sluggish slugger, unloaded a two-run homer in the first inning, then tagged a three-run shot off loser Mike McCormick (12-11) in the second. Aaron hit his in the first.

Spahn, 39, beaten as a starter and in relief at Pittsburgh on Monday and Tuesday, bounced back with an eight-hit job and hit his third home run of the year in the eighth off reliever Billy Loes.

Norm Larker drove in three runs with a pair of singles for the Dodgers, who wrapped up their scoring in the first two innings against loser Jay Hook (10-16). Sandy Koufax (7-12) was the winner with an eight-hitter.

Rookie Art Mahaffey lost his first since called up by the Phils, although allowing just four hits by the Cubs in his seven innings. Ernier Banks' 39th home run scored Chicago's first run, and Ron Santo's single scored the clincher in the sixth after a triple by Bob Will. Glen Hobbie (14-17) was the winner.

Russia Clinches First Place In Olympics

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

ROME (AP) — Soviet Russia, its gold medal and team point leadership over the United States assured, looked to more of the so-called minor sports it excels in today to fatten its domination of the 1960 Olympic Games.

The first results of the day gave an indication of what was to come. In the first quarter-final match of the team epee fencing tournament, the Russians quickly advanced to the semifinals with a 9-2 victory over Germany. Italy beat Sweden 9-3 and will meet Russia in the semis.

With track and field ended except for Saturday's marathon race, the day's Olympic schedule showed competition in shooting, gymnastics, weightlifting, horsemanship, and fencing—sports in which the Soviets have been scoring well and regularly.

Shooting finals were scheduled in clay pigeon and rapid fire pistol with Russians leading at the halfway mark in each. The only U.S. possibility was Marine Capt. Bill McMillan of Turtle Creek, Pa., who was second at the midway point of the rapid fire pistol. Lt. Jim Clark of Bartlesville, Okla., was fifth at the same stage in the clay pigeon event.

Both Capt. McMillan and the leader, Russia's Evceniy Cherkosav, were running ahead of the world and Olympic record pace.

Except for McMillan and John Kelley's remote hopes in Saturday's marathon, America's only other gold medal of the games which end Sunday would come from the unbeaten basketball team, which won its seventh straight game, 112-81 over Italy Thursday night.

A victory over Brazil would clinch it for the all-star club coached by California's Pete Newell.

The track and field games wound up Thursday in a surge of glory for some of the Americans and a day of doom for one.

Wilma Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., anchored the U.S. women 400 meter relay team to her third gold medal of the 1960 Olympics, placing her in a select class with all-time greats.

But her boy friend, Ray Norton, of Oakland, Calif., ran outside his zone of limitation in taking the baton in the men's 400 meter finals and the Americans were disqualified after it appeared they had beaten the Germans.

For Norton it was the climax to a dismal flop. He ran last in both the 100 and 200 meter sprints—the man rated on form to be the top favorite.

Wilma emerged the top star. She won the three gold medals the U.S. women collected to go with the men's nine. The Russians got 11 track and field firsts, six by their women, a sizeable dent in what the Americans once considered their own back yard.

The disqualification, though, spoiled what would have been a rousing finish for Uncle Sam. The men's 1600 meter relay team raced to victory in a world record of 3:02.2, breaking Jamaica's eight-year-old mark of 3:03.9. Jack Herman, Woodland, Calif., did 46.7, Earl Young of San Fernando, Calif., :45.6, Glenn Davis, Columbus, Ohio :45.5 and then Otis Davis, the new 400-meter king from Los Angeles, clocked an anchor leg at :44.4.

Davis had to run the fastest 400 from a moving start in world track history to beat Germany's Carl Kaufmann who was second in :44.5.

In the final field events, the United States was shut out. Russia's Viktor Cybulenko won the javelin with 278-8⅜. Al Cantello, Norristown, Pa., world record holder at 282-3½, threw only 245-1 and never got to the finals. Romania's Iolanda Dalas captured the women's high jump at 6-1⅛ in which the only American, Neomia Rogers of Roba, Ala., went out early.

The 10,000 meter grind went to another Russian, Peter Bolotnikov, in 28:32.3, better than the 28:45.6 Olympic mark of his countryman, Vladimir Kuts, but short of the latter's world mark of 28:30.4.

Max Truex, of Warsaw, Ind., the lone American entry, surprised with a fine sixth place showing in 28:50.2, the fastest he ever has run the event.

The Russians also picked up two gold medals in weightlifting, with Alexander Kurynov beating Tommy Kono, Honolulu, in the middleweight division on a lift of 964 pounds that cracked Kono's world record. Kono was second with a lift of 942 pounds.

The Grand Prix de Dressage in the equestrian competition also was won by Russia.

With the Olympics drawing to a close Sunday, the unofficial team title once more seemed to be Russia's with 34 gold medals and 618 points. The United States had 32 gold medals and 511½ points.

USSR Attempts To Fatten Lead In Minor Sports Events Today

Fisher Runs Shutouts To 3 Straight

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Opening day, Baltimore beat Washington 5-2 behind Jack Fisher's 3 2-3 innings of three-hit, shutout relief. Now there are just 18 games left, and that same young right-hander has pitched his third consecutive shutout, winning his sixth in a row as the Orioles clobbered Cleveland in a 9-0 outburst Thursday night that restored their 1½-game lead in the American League.

The Chicago White Sox, with Ted Kluszewski driving in three runs, knocked off New York 5-4, after the second place Yankees had edged within a half-game of the top. The White Sox are third, still 4½ games behind.

Washington rapped Kansas City 7-0, and Boston beat Detroit 6-1 in the other AL games.

In the National League, Milwaukee whipped San Francisco 9-4, moved within six games of first place Pittsburgh and gained a virtual tie with runner-up St. Louis. Both the Pirates and Cards were idle. Los Angeles defeated Cincinnati 7-4, and Chicago's Cubs edged Philadelphia 2-1.

Fisher, 21, who blanked the White Sox and Yankees in his last two starts, extended his shutout-inning string to 27 with a five-titter against the Indians. But he didn't get a chance to coast until the seventh inning, when the Birds broke through for all their runs as 13 men went to bat against loser Dick Stigman (5-10) and two relievers.

The Yankees blew a 4-2 lead after a two-out muff by first baseman Bill Skowron in the seventh. Gene Freese started the rally with a leadoff home run against Yank ace Art Ditmar, who left after an infield single by Luis Aparicio and the error.

Al Smith hung the loss on reliever Luis Arroyo (4-1) with a single that made it 4-3, and Klu then wrapped it up with a two-run double off southpaw Bobby Shantz.

Lennie Green and Jim Lemon homered for the Nats in support of Jack Kralick (7-4), who beat the A's and Dick Hall (7-12) with a seven-hitter. Ted Williams walloped home run No. 27, the 519th of his career.

Browns, Lions May Have Eye On Track Star

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown would like no better birthday present from his Cleveland Browns than a victory over the Chicago Bears in Saturday night's exhibition clash at Akron's Rubber Bowl.

Brown reached his 52nd birthday Wednesday, but there was no celebration. Work went on as usual at the practice session at League Park.

The workout Thursday was cut by one third—to one hour—because of the heat. Gern Nagler, the end who was sidelined last week against San Francisco because of a knee injury, looked ready for action against the Bears.

Several Browns were breathing easier with news that the National Football League player limit has been expanded from 36 to 38 for the 1960 season.

The move was approved by club owners to help the Dallas Cowboys, new entry in the league, who will be permitted to buy one player from each of the other teams in a drafting program somewhat similar to the one by which the Cowboys were stocked originally.

Each of the 12 clubs will list 36 "untouchables." Dallas will be able to pick any one player from those remaining over the 36.

In the case of the Browns, who are down to 42 players on their roster, Dallas will have six players to pick from after Cleveland names the 36 it wishes to keep. Dallas must complete negotiations for purchase of players by Sept. 19.

A report has cropped up that both Cleveland and Detroit are interested in Glenn Davis, America's Olympic 400-meter hurdles champ, as a pro football prospect. Davis concentrated on track at Ohio State, but was an all-around athlete and a fine football player at Barberton until he suffered a shoulder separation. He now is a school teacher in Columbus.

Hayes Claims Bucks Speediest Since 1955

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes told a group of touring Big Ten sports writers Thursday that the Buckeyes will have their speediest squad since 1955. He also said it's possible that seven to nine sophomores will play on the first two units.

Hayes said his best players are quarterback Tom Matte of Cleveland, fullback Bob Ferguson of Troy and linemen Mike Ingram of Bellaire and Jim Tyrer of Newark.

'Beat Massillon' Parade Witnessed By 1,000 Fans

Some 1,000 enthusiastic fans lined downtown streets Thursday night to view a parade sponsored by the Blue and White Nonpareil Club which marked the climax to the "Beat Massillon" campaign in East Liverpool.

The Potter football team was given another sendoff today on the Diamond at 4 p. m. as the squad departed for Massillon to meet the state's defending football champs.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet was grand marshal for Thursday night's parade.

Members of the football squad, coaches, cheerleaders, managers and members of the Board of Education rode in the parade.

Several marching units and floats highlighted the parade. Music was furnished by the East Liverpool High School band, the "Crockery City" jazz band, the Shrine Band and a Snake Dance band.

Floats were prepared by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Explorer Boy Scout Troop sponsored by St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

Free candy, gum and balloons were distributed to children along the parade route.

Frank Dawson was chairman of the parade committee for the Nonpareil Club.

The parade ended at the American Theater where the team was treated to a movie.

44 Proposals On Fall Ballot To Set Record

The 44 special questions and issues scheduled to appear on ballots at the Nov. 8 general election will set a new record for Columbiana County, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board, said today.

"It's the largest number ever filed in my memory," the veteran clerk said. "We have sometimes had as high as 39 or 40, but never 44 before."

The list is made up principally of levies proposed by cities, villages, townships and school districts to furnish general operating expenses or money for specific services such as fire and police protection.

There are bond issues proposed to erect new schools. Leetonia will vote on a similar proposition to build a fire station.

East Liverpool has two propositions — an initiative ordinance calling for a municipal income tax, plus proposed renewal of an incinerator department levy.

Wellsville will vote on an initiative measure for a 40-hour week for the police department. Salem will act on a similar proposition calling for a 56-hour work week for firemen. Salem also will vote on a proposal to adopt a charter form of government.

A local option question is scheduled at Lisbon. Center and Yellow Creek Townships will vote on both local option and sale of beer. In the West Branch Local School District of Mahoning County, which takes in parts of Knox and Butler Townships in Columbiana County, there will be a vote on a school transfer question as well as a bond issue.

Every voter in the county will receive a minimum of three ballots, plus those for any special questions or issues awaiting a decision in his area. The three ballots due every voter are: The Presidential ticket; the ballot with state, district and county candidates, and the non-partisan judicial ballot, with candidates for State Supreme Court, 7th District Court of Appeals and county Probate Court.

West End Man Injured While Walking Tracks

A 61-year-old West End man suffered a scalp laceration as a result of a fall or an attack by two youths while walking on the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. right-of-way between W. 8th and W. 7th Sts. about 3 p. m. Thursday, police said.

William H. Esken, 712 W. 9th St., was treated at City Hospital for the injury. He told police he was walking west on the tracks and passed 2 youths about 15 or 16 headed in the opposite direction. Just as he stepped onto a bridge "everything went black" and when he regained consciousness he saw the youths running along the tracks in the opposite direction, he said.

At the hospital, he said the injury was suffered "on a rock." Esken walked to a barbershop on W. 8th St. and then continued to his home. A neighbor took him to the hospital.

"It's the largest number ever filed in my memory," the veteran clerk said. "We have sometimes had as high as 39 or 40, but never 44 before."

The list is made up principally of levies proposed by cities, villages, townships and school districts to furnish general operating expenses or money for specific services such as fire and police protection.

There are bond issues proposed to erect new schools. Leetonia will vote on a similar proposition to build a fire station.

East Liverpool has two propositions — an initiative ordinance calling for a municipal income tax, plus proposed renewal of an incinerator department levy.

Wellsville will vote on an initiative measure for a 40-hour week for the police department. Salem will act on a similar proposition calling for a 56-hour work week for firemen. Salem also will vote on a proposal to adopt a charter form of government.

A local option question is scheduled at Lisbon. Center and Yellow Creek Townships will vote on both local option and sale of beer. In the West Branch Local School District of Mahoning County, which takes in parts of Knox and Butler Townships in Columbiana County, there will be a vote on a school transfer question as well as a bond issue.

Every voter in the county will receive a minimum of three ballots, plus those for any special questions or issues awaiting a decision in his area. The three ballots due every voter are: The Presidential ticket; the ballot with state, district and county candidates, and the non-partisan judicial ballot, with candidates for State Supreme Court, 7th District Court of Appeals and county Probate Court.

West End Man Injured While Walking Tracks

A 61-year-old West End man suffered a scalp laceration as a result of a fall or an attack by two youths while walking on the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. right-of-way between W. 8th and W. 7th Sts. about 3 p. m. Thursday, police said.

William H. Esken, 712 W. 9th St., was treated at City Hospital for the injury. He told police he was walking west on the tracks and passed 2 youths about 15 or 16 headed in the opposite direction. Just as he stepped onto a bridge "everything went black" and when he regained consciousness he saw the youths running along the tracks in the opposite direction, he said.

At the hospital, he said the injury was suffered "on a rock." Esken walked to a barbershop on W. 8th St. and then continued to his home. A neighbor took him to the hospital.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Problem Child Tagged A 'Dreamer'

Often a school child is reported to his parents as a day-dreamer. Sometimes he daydreams because he has some worries about his relationships at home or with his playmates. A mother writes from Virginia about her son, nine: "He has been tagged 'a dreamer'. I've been worried about him for some time and haven't been able to help him. "His grades recently have been slipping and I've talked it over, at great length, with his teacher. She suggested I write to you for help. "She is a minister's wife, a very fine and understanding person, but she doesn't know what to do about this situation, either.

Garry C. Meyers

"ALTHOUGH HE usually receives a little above average grades, she feels he could do much better. But, as I said, he's been letting them slip.

"When he's supposed to be working on a very important test, she sometimes finds him gazing out the window, etc. It sometimes takes him over an hour to do one page of homework. We can't seem to make him concentrate.

"If there is a solution, would you be kind enough to advise me? I'm afraid that as he gets into the upper grades, it'll be much more difficult to do anything for him.

"He is a very normal, lovable little boy and loves sports, fishing, Cub Scouting, everything little boys usually like. He's always been well-behaved and considerate."

My reply in part:

Usually a child daydreams at school because what is done in class is too hard for him to get or too easy to challenge his effort.

—:—

I DON'T BELIEVE you will get anywhere by scolding him at home for his failure to concentrate and do well at school. But, you might help him if you can keep calm as you help him with his lessons. If you can't be calm, you had better employ a quiet teacher to tutor him. As he does better at his school work, he will concentrate more.

No doubt he is a poor reader. He should read better as he reads materials interesting to him with a vocabulary much easier than his regular school books.

Then you might help him at home by requiring him to do a few regular jobs that he can never escape and see that he does them promptly. When you make a request or command of him, first have his attention so there is no need to repeat it.

Be generous with approval of his slightest gain at book learning.

My bulletins, "The Child Who Doesn't Concentrate" and "Home Helps for Poor Readers I & II," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert V. Spears, 65, once listed among 42 passengers killed in a Gulf of Mexico plane crash, has been sentenced to two to five years for abortion.

He was ordered Thursday to start the sentence when he completes a five-year federal term he is now serving for driving a stolen car across a state line.

Spears, a naturopath, was believed aboard an airliner which mysteriously crashed Nov. 16. His place had been taken by William A. Taylor.

Authorities investigated the possibility that the plane was blown up in the air by dynamite. Spears, discovered later in Phoenix, Ariz., was convicted of appropriating Taylor's car.

He was brought here from a federal prison at nearby Terminal Island to face earlier abortion charges still pending against him. He pleaded guilty.

Freak Mishap Fatal To Man, 24, In Piqua

PIQUA, Ohio (AP)—A freak accident Thursday night killed Kenneth Guillozet, 24, of Piqua. He was lying on his back on the municipal ball park grounds, waiting to play in a softball game, when a driverless car rolled down a gently sloping hill and ran over him.

The car dragged Guillozet about 55 feet before it smashed into the fence in back of home plate, narrowly missing spectators.

Mrs. Richard Shanely of Piqua told police she had set the emergency brake when she parked the car at the entrance of the community building at Mote Park. Police said the emergency brake was still on when they examined the car after it rolled 213 feet down the grassy incline.

Fatally Injured By Car

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —Drew Brandenburg, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brandenburg, was fatally injured Thursday when he dashed into the street and into the side of a car near his suburban Perrysburg home.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Problem Child Tagged A 'Dreamer'

Often a school child is reported to his parents as a day-dreamer. Sometimes he daydreams because he has some worries about his relationships at home or with his playmates. A mother writes from Virginia about her son, nine: "He has been tagged 'a dreamer'. I've been worried about him for some time and haven't been able to help him. "His grades recently have been slipping and I've talked it over, at great length, with his teacher. She suggested I write to you for help. "She is a minister's wife, a very fine and understanding person, but she doesn't know what to do about this situation, either.

Garry C. Meyers

"ALTHOUGH HE usually receives a little above average grades, she feels he could do much better. But, as I said, he's been letting them slip.

"When he's supposed to be working on a very important test, she sometimes finds him gazing out the window, etc. It sometimes takes him over an hour to do one page of homework. We can't seem to make him concentrate.

"If there is a solution, would you be kind enough to advise me? I'm afraid that as he gets into the upper grades, it'll be much more difficult to do anything for him.

"He is a very normal, lovable little boy and loves sports, fishing, Cub Scouting, everything little boys usually like. He's always been well-behaved and considerate."

My reply in part:

Usually a child daydreams at school because what is done in class is too hard for him to get or too easy to challenge his effort.

—:—

I DON'T BELIEVE you will get anywhere by scolding him at home for his failure to concentrate and do well at school. But, you might help him if you can keep calm as you help him with his lessons. If you can't be calm, you had better employ a quiet teacher to tutor him. As he does better at his school work, he will concentrate more.

No doubt he is a poor reader. He should read better as he reads materials interesting to him with a vocabulary much easier than his regular school books.

Then you might help him at home by requiring him to do a few regular jobs that he can never escape and see that he does them promptly. When you make a request or command of him, first have his attention so there is no need to repeat it.

Be generous with approval of his slightest gain at book learning.

My bulletins, "The Child Who Doesn't Concentrate" and "Home Helps for Poor Readers I & II," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert V. Spears, 65, once listed among 42 passengers killed in a Gulf of Mexico plane crash, has been sentenced to two to five years for abortion.

He was ordered Thursday to start the sentence when he completes a five-year federal term he is now serving for driving a stolen car across a state line.

Spears, a naturopath, was believed aboard an airliner which mysteriously crashed Nov. 16. His place had been taken by William A. Taylor.

Authorities investigated the possibility that the plane was blown up in the air by dynamite. Spears, discovered later in Phoenix, Ariz., was convicted of appropriating Taylor's car.

He was brought here from a federal prison at nearby Terminal Island to face earlier abortion charges still pending against him. He pleaded guilty.

Freak Mishap Fatal To Man, 24, In Piqua

PIQUA, Ohio (AP)—A freak accident Thursday night killed Kenneth Guillozet, 24, of Piqua. He was lying on his back on the municipal ball park grounds, waiting to play in a softball game, when a driverless car rolled down a gently sloping hill and ran over him.

The car dragged Guillozet about 85 feet before it smashed into the fence in back of home plate, narrowly missing spectators.

Mrs. Richard Shanely of Piqua told police she had set the emergency brake when she parked the car at the entrance of the community building at Mote Park. Police said the emergency brake was still on when they examined the car after it rolled 213 feet down the grassy incline.

Fatally Injured By Car

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —Drew Brandenburg, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brandenburg, was fatally injured Thursday when he dashed into the street and into the side of a car near his suburban Perrysburg home.

Hammarskjold 'Under Fire'

Belgium Warned By Dag On 'Tampering' In Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold warned Belgium against tampering in the muddled affairs of the Congo as the Security Council sought to clarify the U.N.'s position in the chaotic African nation.

Hammarskjold, under fire from several directions in the United Nations' role in the former Belgian colony, leveled a stern warning Thursday night to Belgian U.N. Ambassador Walter Loridan.

The secretary general said he had received confirmed reports that nine tons of weapons were unloaded Wednesday from a Belgian Sabena Airlines plane at Elisabethville Airport in the secessionist province of Katanga.

He asked Loridan whether the Brussels government had authorized the sending of weapons to provincial authorities.

"Should this be the case," Hammarskjold said, "the secretary general would consider it necessary to make a formal serious protest."

Hammarskjold, under attack from the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba, sought council action to halt the flow of outside aid to the battling Congo factions.

The call presumably was directed against both Belgium and the Soviet Union.

Moscow has been sending planes, troop carriers and technicians to Lumumba who is fighting Congolese dissidents.

The secretary general has also called on the 11-nation council to provide $100 million to help the infant nation get its bearings.

The council was expected to meet Saturday in a session that may run well into the night.

Hammarskjold has insisted the U.N. operation in the Congo must remain nonpartisan and has proposed disarming non-U.N. military units in the country as a step to restoring order.

The secretary general conferred Thursday with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Yugoslav Ambassador Dobrivoje Vidic.

Vidic issued a surprise call Thursday for an urgent council meeting to consider the deteriorating situation in the Congo.

The letter made no mention of Soviet aid to Lumumba, but it accused Belgium of supplying military equipment, instructors and other forms of aid to Premier Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga Province and other rebel Congo leaders.

Moscow has been accusing the 16,000-man U.N. Congo command of meddling in the Congo's internal affairs, favoring Belgium and helping Lumumba's foes.
